Cindy,
 the last year of school is finally coming to an end. Rats! Rats! (no kidding) not all cheerleaders. Remember all the wonderful times we had in eighth and (last year, all that work) how about last year in 7th. Younga class? Maybe a shouldn't remind you. (that man) sure love dumb) I still can't believe it, the last year 13 years of being stuck in a prison (by I don't start chasing some kids before we know by that arguing things I said. Good luck all the future the queen thing, and if you ever forget me (which with everything) just grab on the back of the book.
 you better not) (in the picture) bye the
 and I am there. Good luck with gummy toes you and can!

Welcome to Kalamazoo

Central High Bi-Centennial — 1976

"KISS ME KATE"

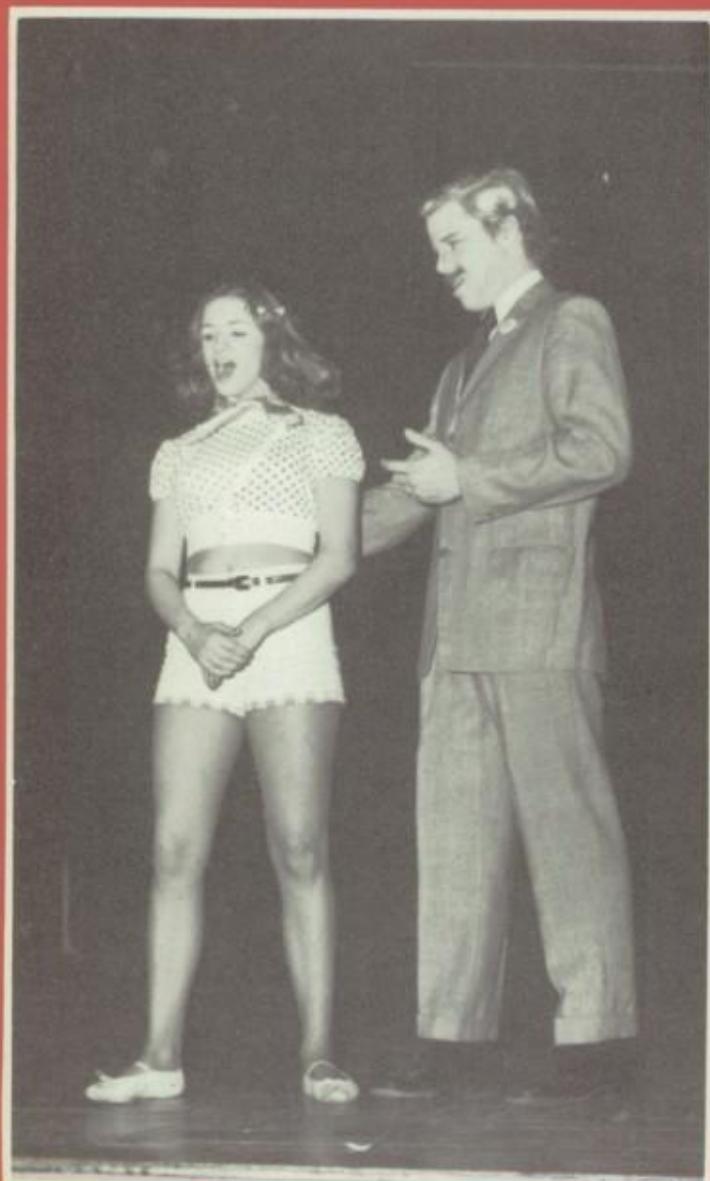

A Shakespearean "play within a play" is the basis for the Cole Porter musical comedy, which came to the stage of Chenery Auditorium March 21 and 22, 1975.

Eric Dewey portrayed Fred Graham, actor, director, ex-husband of the "shrew" Lilli Vanessi, played by Pam Yarger. Sara Combs as Lois Lane and her sidekick Bill, played by Pierre Robert, were the second leads for the show.

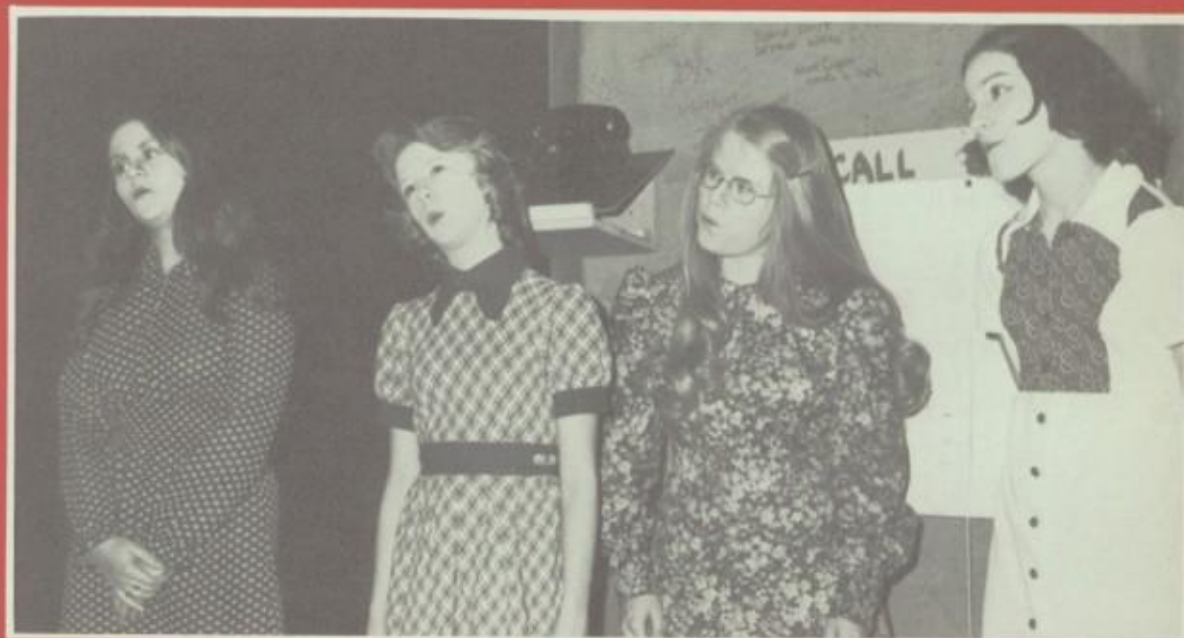

Bob Dewey served as drama consultant, Dennis Ettwein directed set construction and crew, with Jill Halperin choreographing, Ron Teare directing the orchestra and Ester Reigel as vocal director.

An Orchestra Helps

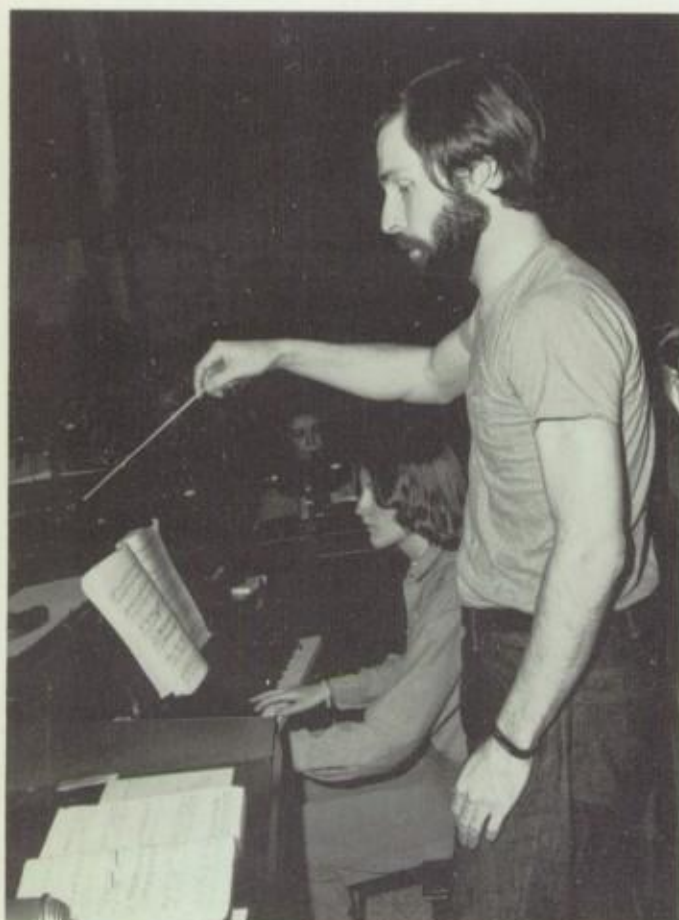

The Central High School Orchestra supports its school's musical productions. 45 members strong this year, the pit orchestra of KCHS played Cole Porter's musical score in the combined orchestral and choral production of "Kiss Me Kate" March 21 and 22, 1975.

With the inspired direction of Ronald Teare, the KCHS concert Orchestra also performs their own concerts, such as the one on April 22, 1975, in the Civic Auditorium, and also participates in the Maroon and White Revue and the Christmas concert each year.

The Singing Voices of Central High

The Central High Choir this year served Central and the community by presenting concerts throughout the year. In the fall they presented the unique and distinctive Madrigal Dinners at Kalamazoo College. Added to that in the winter and spring, the choir presented the Maroon and White Revue, winter concerts, their spring musical production, a concert with Kalamazoo Symphony, the Shalom Concert, Baccalaureate and graduations concert. If that were not enough, the members of the choir also participated in State Honors Choir Competition, Junior High Presentations, and community programs, such as the Retired Teachers Dinner, the Lions' Club luncheons and many other civic events. Under the direction of Mrs. Esther Reigel, the high traditions of musical competence and fine musical traditions were maintained at Central High School in our Bi-centennial year.

Central's Finest: The Marching Band — 1975-6

The 1975 Kalamazoo Central High School Marching Band carried on its fine musical traditions this year by marching in their bright new dark red and black uniforms with white trim at a whole host of school and community activities. In the fall they marched for all of Central's home games including the Loy Norrix game which was away. During the fall the band also presented a special show for Kalamazoo College's Homecoming celebration in October. Such numbers as "Rock-a-bye Your Baby" and "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans" were high-stepped in intricate patterns for both the high school and college audiences. The band is maintaining its standards as one of the finest marching bands in the state. The band's director, Jerome Mandl, has kept the exciting band up to its high standards, and the students and faculty of Central High can be very proud of their band. In the spring the band marches in parades around the community and performs concerts in the Central High gymnasium. Even during the winter the band puts on special Christmas concerts for the Central High community. The Central High Band is justly called the finest in the state.

PRODUCTION NOTES

"She's not mad, she's the Madwoman of Chaillot." One day Countess Aurelia discovers a terrible plot. A group of business men want to destroy Chaillot. Well, she's not going to let them. With the help of her friends Constance, Gabrielle, and Josephine, the friendly raggpicker, and all the village people, she quietly takes care of all the wicked people, and sets Chaillot back to normal again.

Central's Choir: Madrigal Concert

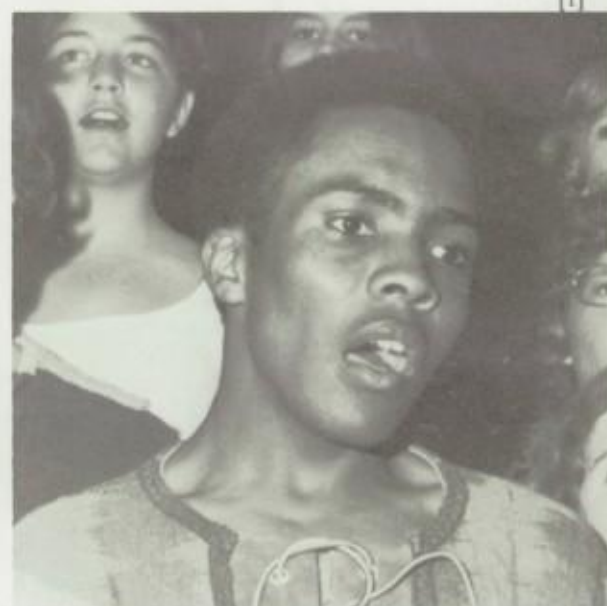

The Kalamazoo Central High School Choir presented their school annual Madrigal Dinner at Kalamazoo College on October 21-22 1975. The 85 voice choir sang madrigals from the German, Jewish, Italian and English Spectrum. In addition there were Harpsichord and Recorder selections. Over 100 people enjoyed the two performances. Readings were given by Janae Walker and Pierre Robert, and a selected quartet of Robin Valdez, Pam Yarger, Joel Russcher and Mike Vigen, performed special musical selections. The dinner and musical evening was one of the high points of the cultural school year at Central High. The Central High Choir has established a cultural tradition that has increased in popularity over the past two years and is sure to be a yearly event in the years to come.

A Band Special

On November 15, 1975 the KCHS Marching Band marched into Memorial Stadium in Lansing, Michigan and put on a stunning performance for the state's first state-wide semi-finals in Class-A Football. They started the halftime show with "Confidence" as the brisk, down-field drill. The precision drills consisted of a Jerry Bilik's arrangement of "Hollywood Halftime," "Step to the Rear" by Elmer Bernstein, and the finale was a matchless drill done to "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans." The Central High Band is the best in Southwestern Michigan.

CHS Band Offers Christmas Concert

On December 11, 1975, The Kalamazoo Central High School Band, under the competent direction of Jerome Mandl, presented their Annual Winter Concert before a large audience at the Zuidema Gym.

The program included works by Nicolai Rimsky, KorSakov, Moussorgsky, Kalinnikov, Reed, John Williams, and Gilbert and Sullivan.

The band also had concerts on February 24, 1976 — "A Cavalcade of America," a program of musical comedy: March 30, 1976 — "A Bicentennial Concert" featuring soloists from W.M.U.: April 3, 1976 — "College Forum Concert" at Kalamazoo College: May 11, 1976 — "The Annual Spring Concert." The band played superbly and has high hopes for next year at all of these concerts.

The Christmas Concert

The Central High School Orchestra and Choir's Annual Christmas Concert in Chenery Auditorium on December 15, 1975 was easily one of the loveliest ever performed by the choir and orchestra.

The Orchestra was rich and full and clearly the finest Central has produced in over five years. Their music was traditional to the season with a medley of Christmas works. Under the talented direction of Ronald Teare and Bill Ricci, the Central High Orchestra again reached the quality and beauty of sound that has been a hall-mark of the Central High Music Department over the years.

The second part of the program was the Choir's exquisite presentation of Benjamin Britain's "Ceremony of Carols." Under the light and delicate direction of Esther Riegel, the choir performed its best and most lyrical concert of the year. To the accompaniment of dancers and a lovely Harpist, Ms. Angerman, the choir sang and heightened the spirit of the holidays for everyone who attended the concert.

Synopsis

The play is a mythical story about the Old West. The town of Gopher Gulch has a sheriff — Jack Oglesby, his girl — Maroon, and a gun slinger — Racham. In the town also is the town drunk and scoundral, Sneaky Fitch.

Racham challenges him daily to a duel, but Sneaky is a chicken and won't draw. One day the town doctor drugs Sneaky to steal his money, liquor, and suit of clothes. Sneaky is found and is thought to be dead. The towns' people have a celebration funeral, but Sneaky wakes up and goes back to town where the people think that he has risen from the dead.

They become afraid of him and treat him as a god. Finally, the sheriff challenges Sneaky for romancing Maroon, and Sneaky kills the Sheriff, and becomes Sheriff himself. Racham challenges him and then backs out.

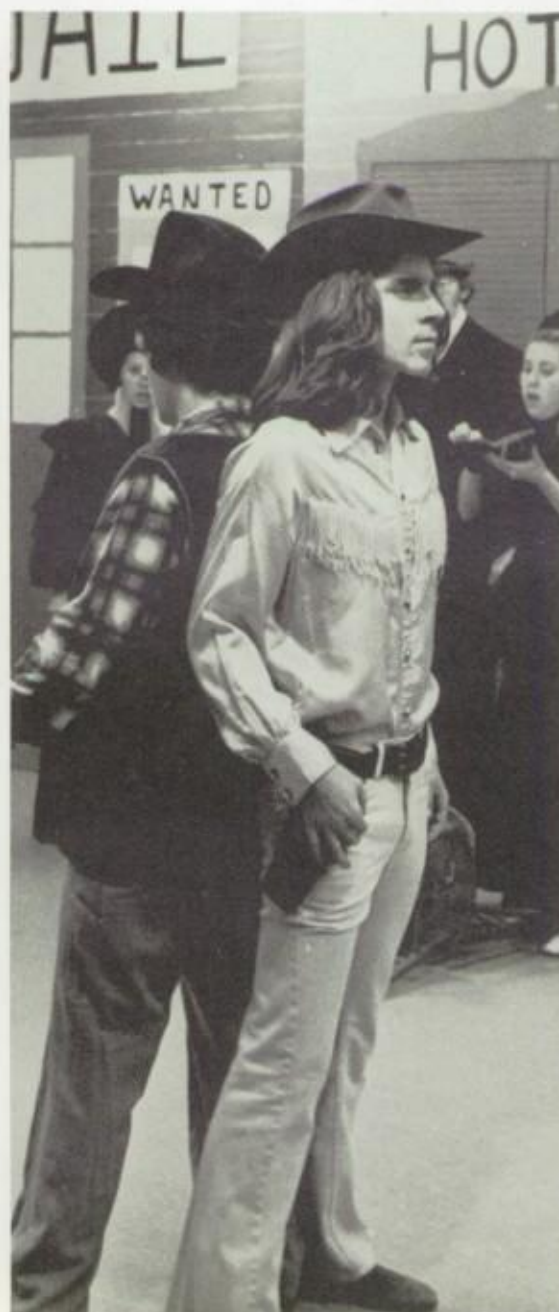

The doctor then returns and says that Sneaky never died. Maroon kills Sneaky, confessing that he was the only man she ever loved. The town rejoices because Sneaky is finally dead, and the myths about the Old West are preserved.

PHOTOGRAPHS AND MEMORIES: PROM 1975

The spring prom has left memories for the many couples who attended. Music was provided by Cloudburst, a band from Lansing.

"Photographs and Memories" was the theme and the brand new Kalamazoo Center was the setting. Refreshments were served by the Center's catering service. The seniors did a fine job in sponsoring the prom. These photographs illustrate that it was a beautiful evening enjoyed by all.

Kalamazoo Central Has Little People Too!

The Kalamazoo Central Day Care Center is on its 4th year of operation. Headed by Mrs. Barbara White, the Center has proven to be a great success not only with the 3-5 year olds, but also with the students.

The Center serves as a 2-hour block class in which our students act as aides. Not only do they get a credit, but they gain knowledge and experience for their own future years.

This year's classes consisted of an all female staff. Mrs. White feels that, "Men should have and should give a helping hand in the Center too." She's looking forward to having co-ed classes next year and in the years to come.

Industrial Arts

One of the most exciting places for students in the school is the Industrial Arts Department of Central High. Welding, Wood-Working, Electronics, Graphic Arts, Drafting, Auto Mechanics, and Small Engines are the specific classes offered to the student body. Students learn trades and skills by doing the actual jobs, not just by book learning.

Among the different and varied projects that the Department participates in and helps are in the building of a real Home, the rebuilding of cars, the publishing of school publications and programs, and the revitalizing of TV and radios. The department also helps rebuild lawnmowers and small engines. Through learning how to utilize the skills of these practical endeavors, students learn and mature skills which will be used regularly throughout the rest of their lives. Industrial Arts is practical, usable education, and an important part of our high school curriculum.

Industrial Arts 3rd Home

Students from Mr. Hanovers' Construction trades classes, Mr. Payne's Building Classes, Mr. Taylor's Electronics classes, Mrs. Greenman's Home Economics Classes and Mr. Bailey's Home Economic Classes — all coordinated their educational efforts to help build CHS's third Home.

The exterior was handled by Mr. Hanovers, Mr. Payne, Mr. Taylor and the interior by Mrs. Greenman and Mrs. Bailey's classes. Other members on the Board of Directors for the project were Mr. Hagman, Mr. Goodwyn, Mr. Fowler, Mr. Boyce, Mr. Snow, Mr. Pierson and Mr. Van Werden.

Working in three hour blocks the students worked on the house and almost finished it by the time the Delphian went to press. The third house is located at 3307 Thornhill here in Kalamazoo.

The Backbone of Central High

— SPORTS —

The Spirit of '75-76

The Kalamazoo Central High Fall Cheerleaders are a brand new squad this fall; new faces, new games, new assemblies, new cheers. The two squads worked and practiced in the late afternoons and into the evening perfecting their cheers. The cheerleaders were the backbone of school spirit in the fall organizing pep assemblies, painting school spirit signs, and helping the crowd to cheer at the games. The only senior on the squad this fall was Kathy DeGroat, which means that the new squad with their experience and pep will be back for three full years to help promote and support school spirit at Central High.

Track Team Looks Toward 1976

The Kalamazoo Central High Track team of 1975 had a "ho-hum" season. They did not win many meets, but they had lots of spirit and tried hard. There are only four seniors on the team, which means that the spring of 1976 should bring more victories to Central as the sophomores and juniors mature. The team's most valuable runners were Eddie Starks and his twin brother, Willie. The coach was Elf Pedler, who has retired after 27 years as the Head Coach. The team will really miss him. The Assistant Coach for this year was Mr. Long. With a little luck and experience, the spring of 1976 should bring Kalamazoo Central into one of the more powerful contenders of the Big Eight Conference.

Women's Track Team Champions Third Year in a Row!

The 1975 Women's Track season turned out very successfully. Coached by Mrs. Georgia Hall and Mr. Kent Ray, the girls finished the year with a rewarding season. They took first at the Western and Constock Invitationals; first at the Conference meet; first in Regionals and third in the State Meet. This proved how hard the girls worked and they deserve a lot of credit.

School records were broken in all field events set by Dawn Morford — shotput, Kay Barstow — high jump, and Debbie Dunning — long jump.

New school records in running events by Liz Shon — 100 yard dash, Cheryl Minnot — 440 yard dash, Debbie Dunning — 220 yard dash, and the team of Miss Shon, Dowdy, Minnott and Dunning in the 440 yard relay.

New events added to the track season last year was the 2 mile, mile relay, 880 yard relay, 110 yard hurdles, and the 440 yard relay. This added a little more challenge and a change to this year's program.

The girls hope for this kind of season for this year.

Baseball Team Has 500 Season in 1975

Kalamazoo Central's 1975 Men's baseball team was coached by William Topp. Last year was their last year in the 7A league. Their record came out even with 11 wins and 11 losses. Mitch Wilson was team captain. Mitch and teammates Kyle Rowekamp and Senior Dave Clark made the G-K all star team for 1975. Altogether it was a successful season with this year looking brighter as Kalamazoo Central will be a new member for the Big Eight.

Women's Softball

Kalamazoo Central's 1975 Women's Softball Team did exceptionally well this year. They finished with an overall record of 10 wins and 8 losses. The team came in third place in the State District Conference. Junior, Teresa Ezell was awarded the Sportmanship award of the year. A last year graduate, Linda Matchinski received the Hustle award and Junior Michelle Blakeslee got the Spirit award for the softball team. Senior Julie Highfield was the most valuable player. Julie and Kathy Czuk, a Senior also, were chosen as team captains of the 1976 Women's Softball Team.

Spring Tennis Has Two State Champions

Sherry Acker and Dave Ballingall were the State Champions in Mixed Doubles in the Class A State Tournament. Sherry was included in the list of the top high school players in the United States. Overall, the whole team did very nicely and are expecting another good year in 1976.

Specifically, Kalamazoo Central's Tennis team had a very good year in 1975, with a record of 7 wins and 5 losses. They came in 2nd place in the Regionals, 3rd place in the Greater Kalamazoo Tennis Tournament and 3rd place in the 7-A Conference Game.

Women's Tennis

The Kalamazoo Central High School 1975-76 Tennis team worked hard with their coach Georgia Hall to make their season a successful one. Their team spirit and determination helped defeat the other teams.

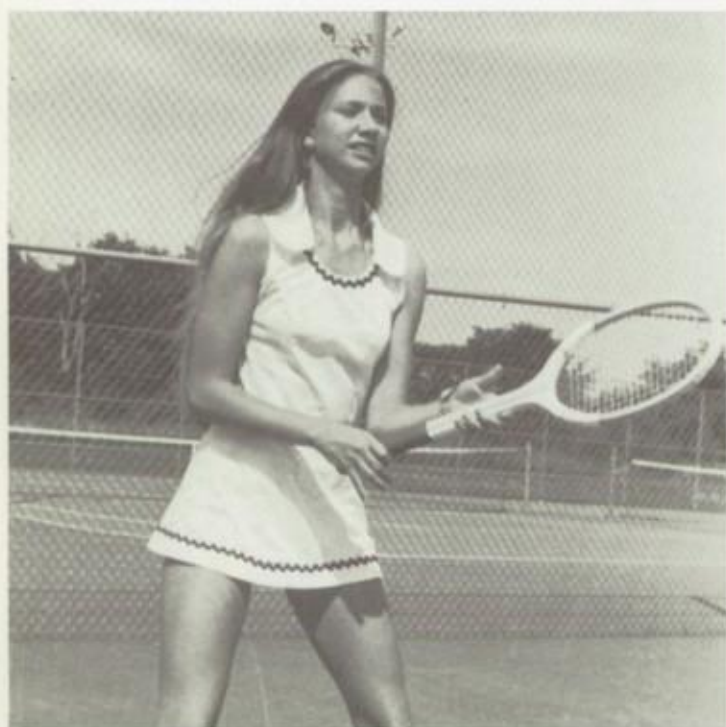

With the final scores as wins and losses. Sharon Mundwiler and Lori Lando were the two top players. They won first place in State Regionals.

Giant's Southwestern Michigan Football Champions

The 1975 Kalamazoo Central High School superlative football team achieved a stunning 9 and 0 season for the first time since 1905. The perfect record established the Giants as the Number 4 team in the State AP Polls, and Number 3 team in the UP Polls, and secured them a semi-finalist berth in the first Michigan High School Playoffs. It is a team with which all other Central High Football teams in the future will be compared.

For a team that was predicted to barely make the 500 mark this season, the drive, desire and determination of this group of young men was incredible. Their balanced air and ground attack, plus a stubborn defense, which only allowed 6 touchdowns in 9 games and only one in the last five games, was the finest in Southwestern Michigan.

The season began with victories over Benton Harbor, and rain sloshed Lansing Eastern. Central High fans began to suspect that this team would not be like others before it. Decisive wins over St. Joseph, Portage Central, and Battle Creek Lakeview moved the Giants into State Contention and ratings in the State Polls. In the weeks that followed Central demolished the 6th rated Battle Creek Central, 41-0, and convinced the doubters that this could be the Giants year. The final victories over Portage Northern, Niles, and Loy Norrix were tough, hard-fought crunching games, which established the Central High Football Team as the finest in the state.

With this victorious perfect season came the Greater Kalamazoo Trophy representing football supremacy in Southwestern Michigan, All-State Honors for the football players, and a sense of pride that this was the greatest football team in Kalamazoo Central High's History. Coach Jim Long and his staff represented the highest traditions in athletics for this school and community.

Giants Homecoming

The first days of Homecoming '75 were celebrated by a Fifties Day. Everybody dressed in the old clothes of their parents and had a good time in their classes. Some of the dresses were just out of this world. The other days were colors day, athletes day, sweater day, grub day and every day was a day of celebration and fun. There was even a "clean day," where most of the student body dressed up in their Sunday best. Homecoming '75 was an unqualified success.

Powder-Puff — 1975

The annual Powder-Puff Football game between the underclasswomen and the senior women was as spirited as ever this year. With Nelsen Stephensen, Bob Horton, Dick Seydel, and Bob Hall as coaches the girls fought for the honor of school supremacy for the next school year. The Junior-Sophomore contingent finally won after a fierce struggle that was marked by some wild illegal tackles and some fine running by Liz Shon, Kay Barsow, Kathy Daly and some fine underclassmen. After the game the bonfire was held and refreshments were served at the gym. It was a totally enjoyable game for the men's football team, who cheered them on from the sidelines.

Giants Homecoming

This year's 1975 Kalamazoo Central High Fall Homecoming brought new ideas and victories to the school. Each class competed in Faculty-Senior Football game, the Powder-Puff Football Game, the shoppers-cart relay races, the egg-throwing contests and the Homecoming Float competition. The royalty of Homecoming was shared, no King or Queen was named this year. Activities went on all week, such as the Bean Jar Contest, the Anatomy of the Teacher Matching Contest, and the Faculty Pie Eating Contest at the Pep Assembly. The Homecoming Float Contest was won for the first time in memory by the Sophomore Class and the Juniors and Sophomores won the Powder-Puff Game, and finally the Seniors beat the Faculty in their football game. Congratulations to all those students who made the "Wonderful World of Giants" possible in October 1975.

Homecoming Victory Dance

The 1975 Kalamazoo Central High Homecoming Dance capped a week long festival of student activities. With a victory over Battle Creek Lakeview as a start, the dance was a huge success. It brought everyone together to dance, relax, or just sit and talk while listening to the band. "Phase Four" provided the music, which everyone enjoyed. "Giant" cakes and beverages were served as refreshments and the members of the 1975 Court were introduced. The final event was sponsored by the Senior Class, and it was one of the larger dances held at the school. It was a super way to end Homecoming 1975.

Cross Country Team Rebuilds for Future

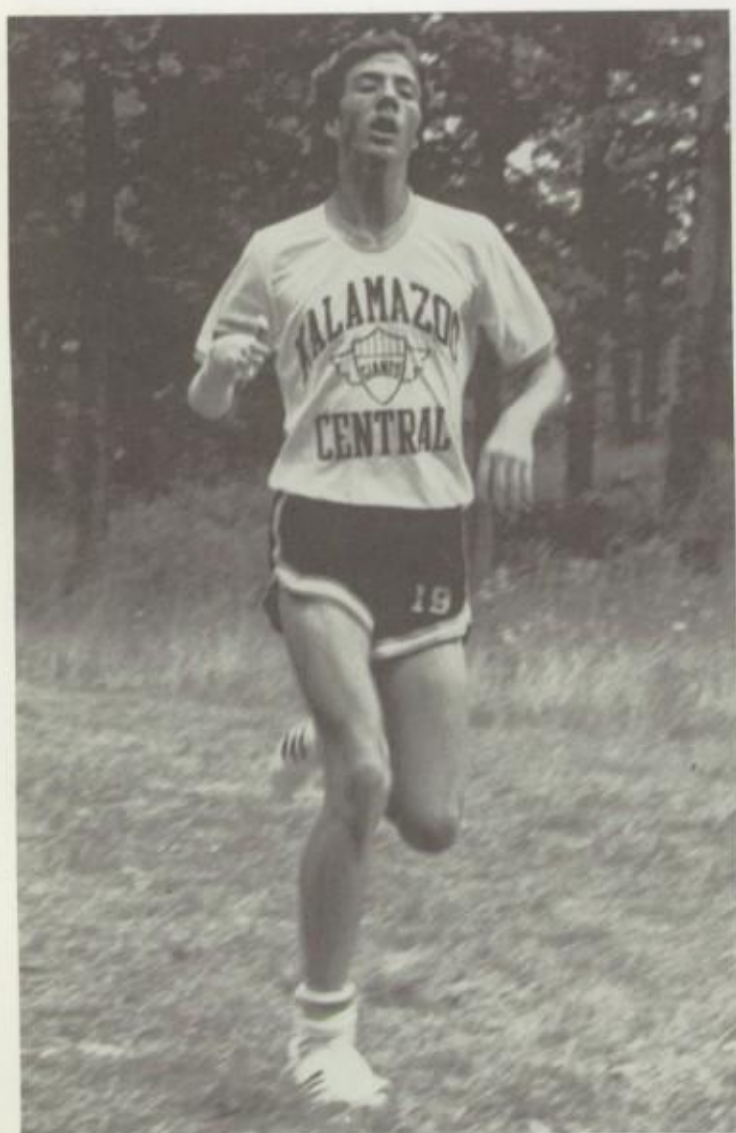

The 1976 Kalamazoo Central Cross-Country Team has been very fortunate this year to have one of the top runners in the state on its team, Tom Pompey. This year's team was young with a large number of underclassmen participating and showing signs of great future growth.

The team is anxiously awaiting its entrance as a participant in the Big Eight conference which is one of the strongest Cross-Country conferences in the state. Coach Pedler anticipates strong challenges will come from Loy Norrix, St. Joseph and Portage Northern who are consistently three of the top ten in the state.

As a new addition this year a women's Cross-Country team was formed. Tremendous growth is expected in this new area in future years.

The initial year's schedule consisted of several dual meets in Sturgis and the Greater Kalamazoo invitational.

The Cross-Country team also played at Holland, Battle Creek Lakeview, Battle Creek Central and Portage Central. The home meets consisted of St. Joseph, Portage Northern, Niles and Loy Norrix. Our home meets took place at the Old Colony Farm.

Men's Golf in 2nd in G-K Tournament

Although this year's Men's Golf Team wasn't as good as last year's team, the 1975 team finished their season in high spirits by placing 2nd, as a team in the Greater Kalamazoo Tournament which took place this year at Lake Doster.

Individual awards were given to Blaine Kubiack who took a second and Doug Thole, who took fifth. Doug Thole is also up for All-City honors for his winning ways on the Kalamazoo Central High Golf Team over the last three years.

With all his young golfers coming back next year, Coach Treloar is looking forward to a winning season in 1976.

Women Swim to Victory!

"Swimmers take your marks, get set, — go." That was the command as the Women's Swim Team began its third year of competition. Starting as soon as school does, the young ladies have swim meets until the beginning of November. They practice two hours a day, with one or two meets each week. Starting with a small team in 1974, the Women's Swim Team has grown to over thirty strong and have shown a 100% improvement in 1975.

Their new coach, Miss Blum, is also very enthusiastic and spends a lot of her time working with the young mermaids. It is a young team with only a handful of seniors, so that the 1976 season promises to be a victorious one.

The strongest swimmer for the 1975 season was Mary Jo Rockwell, who is a senior. She has made State Meet competition for three years straight, and promises to continue her career in college.

Women's Basketball Team Rebuilds for '76

The 1975 Kalamazoo Central's Women's Basketball Teams were rebuilding this year after almost making the Regionals in 1974. The Junior Varsity team has 4 wins and 4 losses as this section of the Delphian goes to press. Anne Costello is the leading rebounder for the team, and the spark plug of the JV's. The Varsity has a ho-hum record of two wins and six losses, and is looking to next year. Mary Vielbig is the high scorer for the team, and also the leading rebounder. Other fine contributors to both teams are Deena Cantu, Liz Shon, Peggy Holton, Linda Knapp and Kay Barstow. With a little bit of luck and some more experience, next year's team will be stronger and better. The women's team represents Central in the finest sportsmanship traditions, and we at Central High support and cheer them on to a better season in 1976.

Spirited Giants Work Hard

The Kalamazoo Central High School Varsity Basketball team has not won many games this year, but they are impressive in spirit. Lead by experienced seniors Talbert Ollie, Benson Isaacs, Chris Gant and Charles (St. Louis) Brandon, Eddie Boyd, the team improved steadily all year and never gave up.

Most games were lost by small margins and with a little luck the season might have gone in the other direction. Coaches Jackson and Gardner felt that this team showed more improvement than many of the teams of the past.

The 1976 Giant Basketball team fought hard, long and well and that is all any coach can ask of any team.

Junior Varsity Bright Light for the Future

Leading the way into the future are Greg Brown, Oscar Brown, Kim Jackson, and Greg Bishop. These men are the spearhead of Coach Clarence Gardner's fine Kalamazoo Central High Junior Varsity Basketball Team. At the time of Delphian Publication the team had an outstanding record of 8 and 1 and looked forward to an extremely successful year. Coach Gardner also had high hopes for Warren Ezell, Greg Phillips, Jeff VanHoeven and Ricky Robinson, and a couple of other players were coming along just fine as well.

Both Coach Jackson and Gardner look forward to seeing these young men next year when the Kalamazoo Central Maroon Giants basketball fortunes are about to improve considerably.

Central Skaters Flash

One of the newer and more exciting sports is Hockey. And Central High has an excellent team this year. Coach Gil Hasso and his skaters have an impressive 6 and 2 record going into the later part of the season. The Giant Skaters were runner-ups in the Holiday Tournament with only one loss to Portage Northern. The top Giants for Coach Hasso this year were Rick Atkins, Don Prior and Goalie Dave Wierick. The team is young, fast, and powerful. With a little luck and lot of work, the Central High School Maroon Giants Hockey Team may well go all the way to the State Championship this year.

Don Knoechel's Year

Without a doubt, Don Knoechel is the finest swimmer ever to swim for Coach John Moore's Central Giants. Don holds more Central High records than any other swimmer in the history of the school: His 2:02.9 in the 200 Yard Individual Medley; his 5:01.1 in the 550 Yard Free Style; his :55.6 in the 100 Yard Butterfly; his 59.9 in the 100 Back Stroke; his 23.4 in the 50 Yard Free Style; his 1:50.9 in the 200 Yard Free Style and his 49.9 in the 100 Yard Free Style are among the finest in the State of Michigan and the nation. The school records which he holds will not fall for many years. As a senior he will be missed, but as a college swimmer, his future is bright indeed. Congratulations — Don.

Wrestlers Arrive

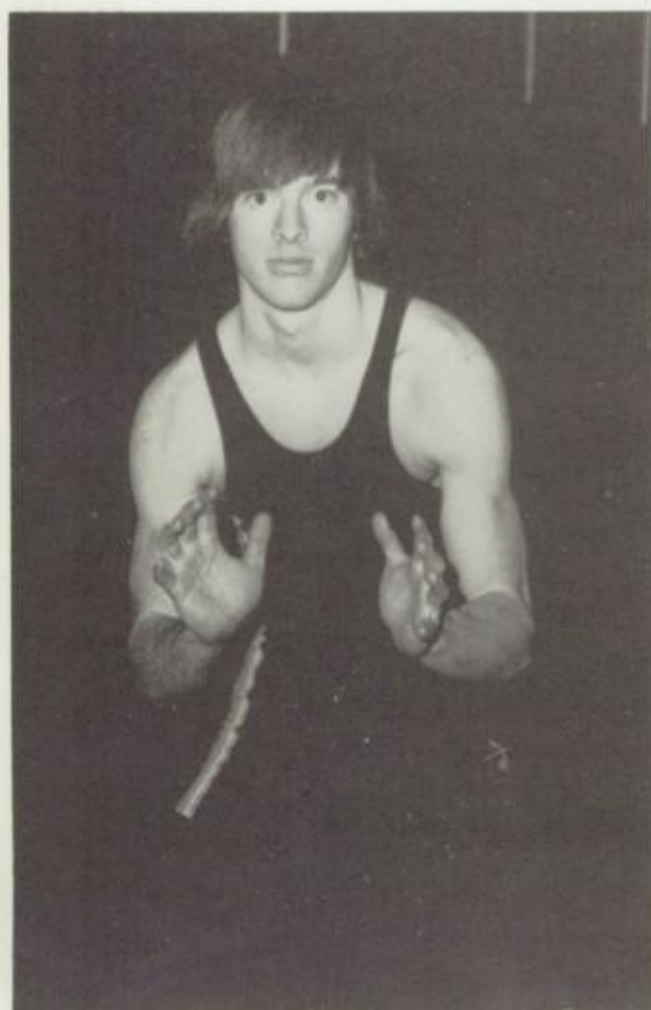

This is the year of the Grapplers at Kalamazoo Central High. At the time of Delphian Publication the team has an outstanding record of 12 and 6 and has a strong chance to qualify several young men in the Regional and State Tournaments. The team also has an excellent chance of becoming the Greater Kalamazoo Champions for the 3rd time in four years.

Coach Callahan and Wroblewski have an outstanding group of Sophomores and look for big things to come in the next three years.

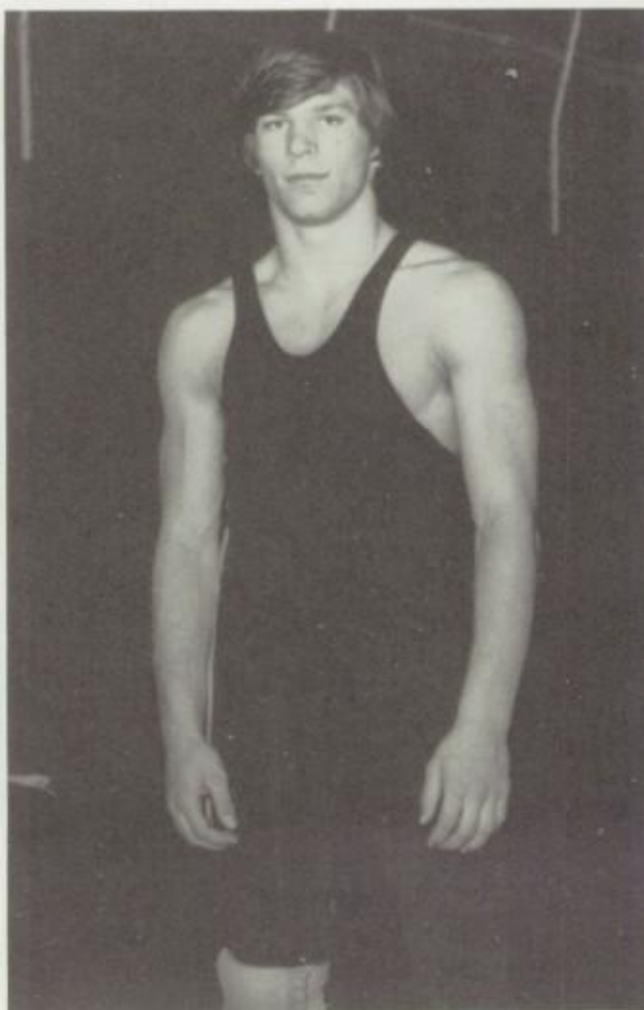

Outstanding Wrestlers on this year's Giant Team are Grady Mays, who has an individual record of 26-1, with 18 Pins, Steve Smith, 23-2 with 12 Falls, Ken Cross, 21-4 with 6 Pins, and Ted Harley, 20-9, with 9 Falls.

Winter Cheer

The 1976 Winter Cheerleaders supported their Maroon Giants all the way this cold winter season. Under the leadership and direction of their coaches, Miss Purifoy and Miss Jones, the eleven women and one man kept up a spirited pattern at all the games both home and away. Some of the young people even helped and attended the Wrestling and Swimming Meets to give support.

Throughout the winter the backbone of the spirit of the student body were these young men and women. Kathy DeGroat and Eddie Starks, as seniors, lead the way. They will be missed next year for each of them has been giving support and help to Central High Sports for the last three years.

An Evening at the Kalamazoo Central Basketball Game

Women's Golf Champions

The Kalamazoo Central Women's Golf Team of Spring 1975 had a fantastic record. They have won six matches, and they are yet to suffer a defeat. They competed in the Loy Norrix Invitational Tournament, bringing back first place with them. They also played along with 12 other teams in the Class A Women's Regionals in Hastings and placed 6th.

We would like to make special mention of Kathy Logan, Sarah Rowley and Ann Rowley. They were awarded last year's most outstanding players with the lowest scores for their golf games. All the matches were played at the Elks Country Club Golf Course. The coach for this outstanding team was Ms. Margaret Brabb. Congratulations and thanks go to Ms. Brabb for her coaching during this successful season.

STUDENT

A large collage of 48 black and white photographs of students and faculty members, arranged in a grid-like fashion. The photos show various individuals in different settings, including classrooms, outdoors, and in group shots. Some photos are portraits, while others show students in action or in groups. The collage is titled 'STUDENT' in large, bold, capital letters at the top left.

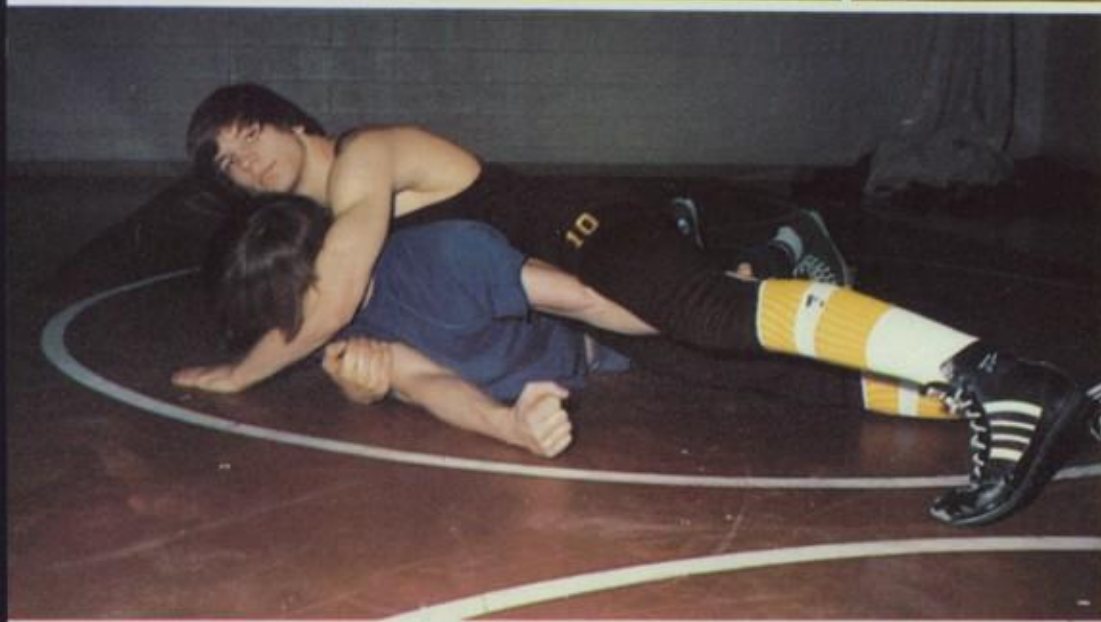

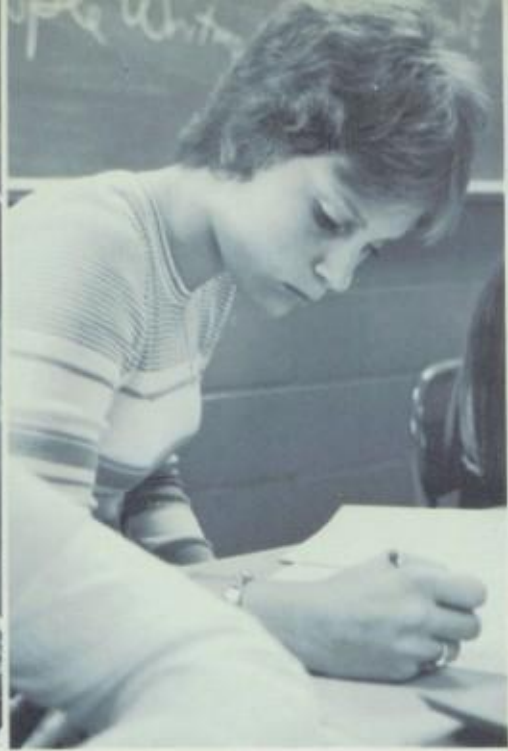

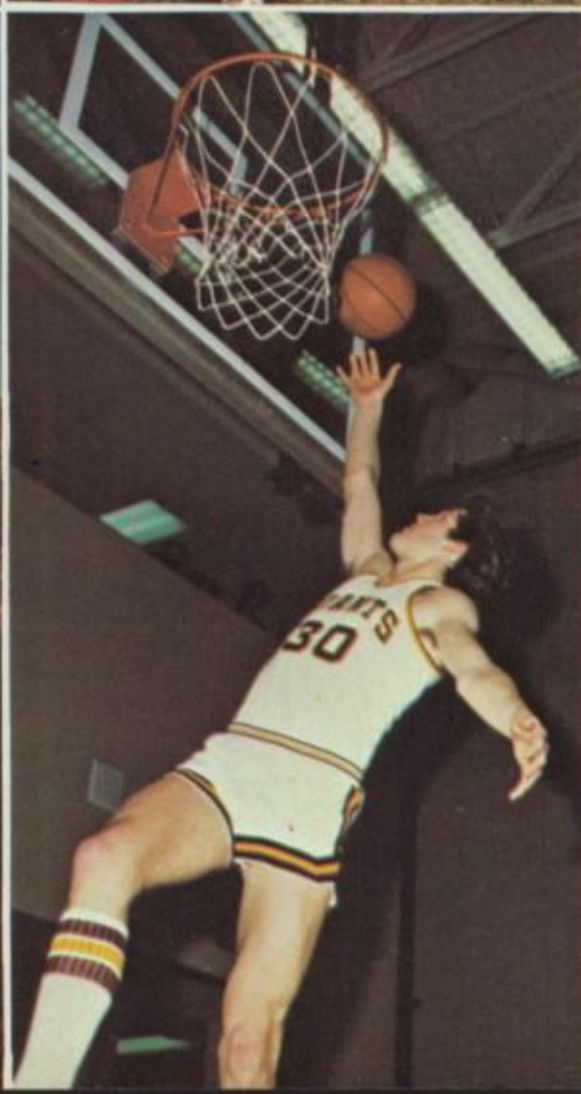

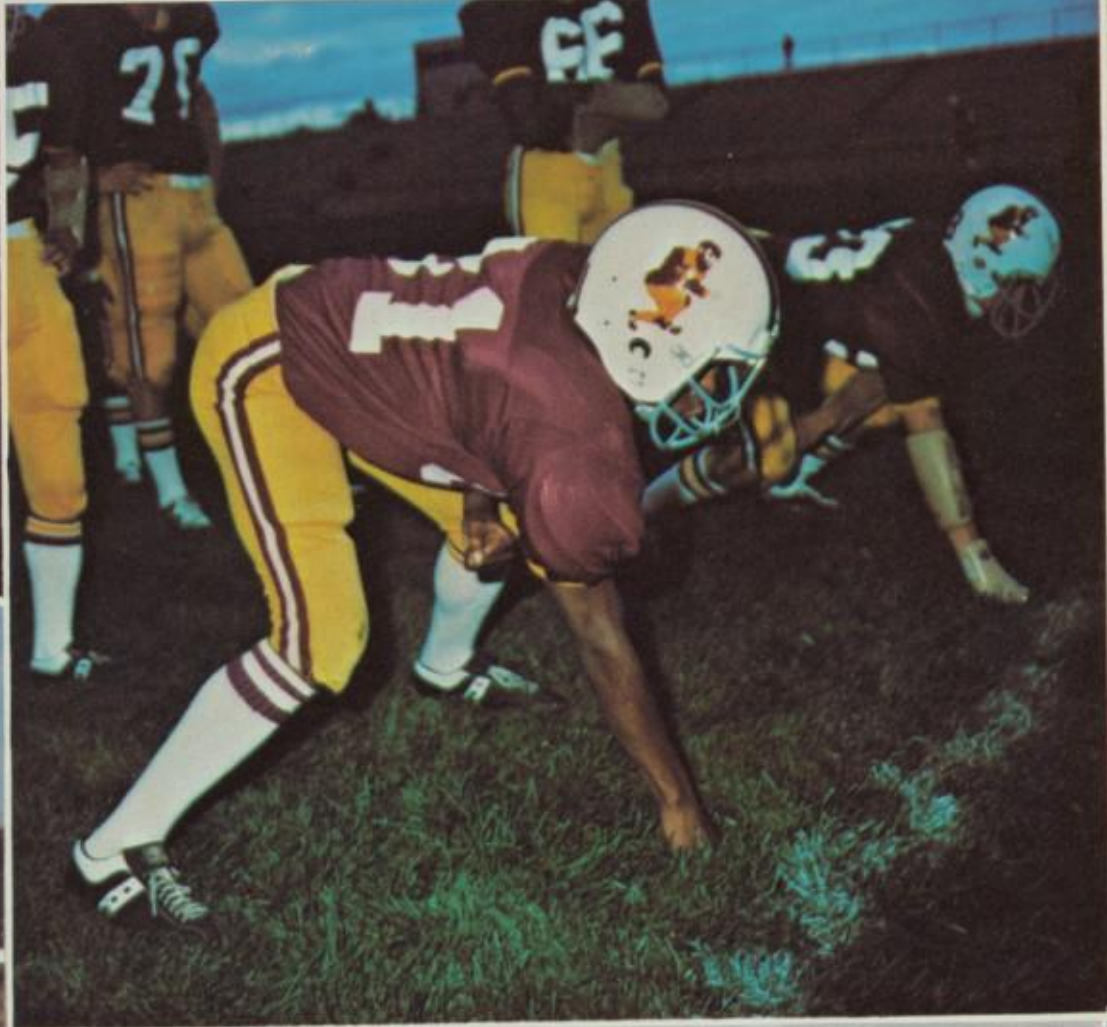

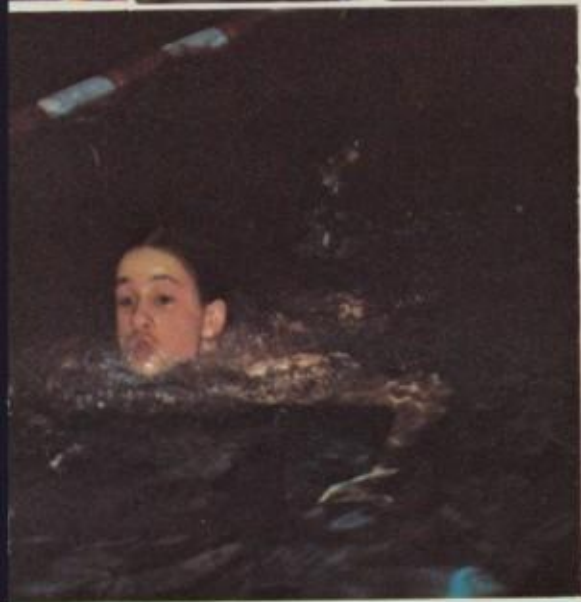

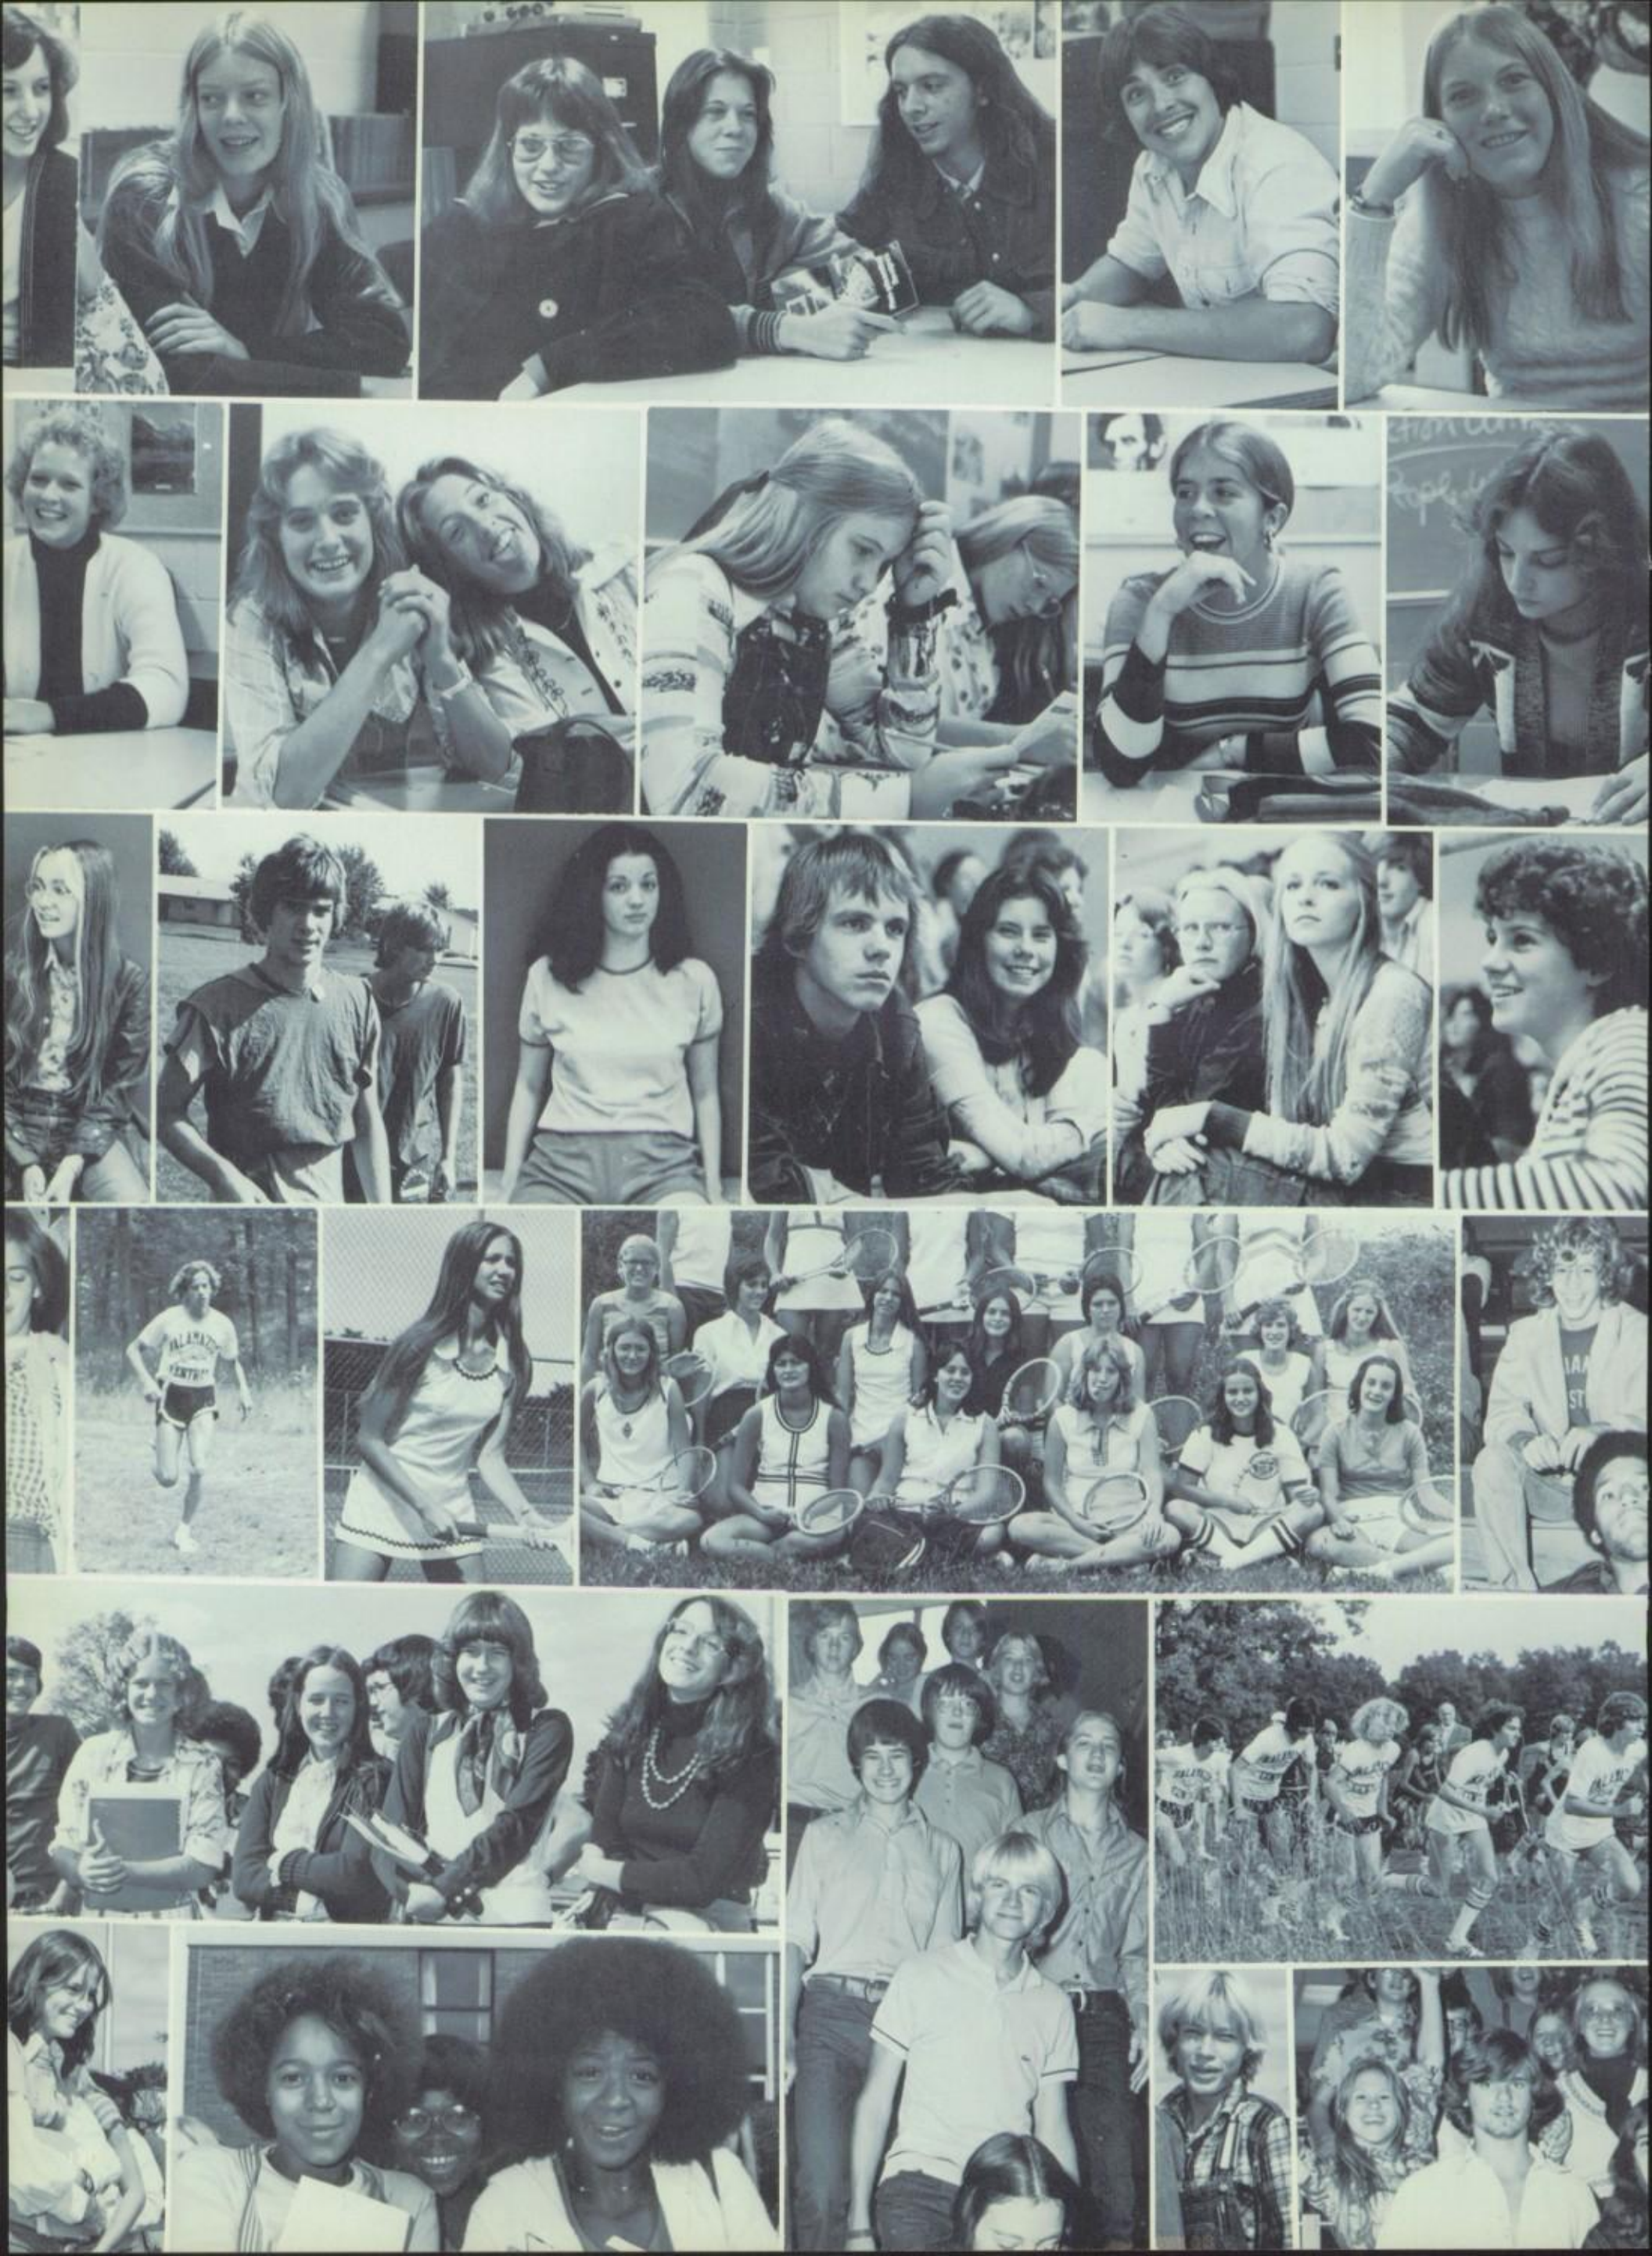

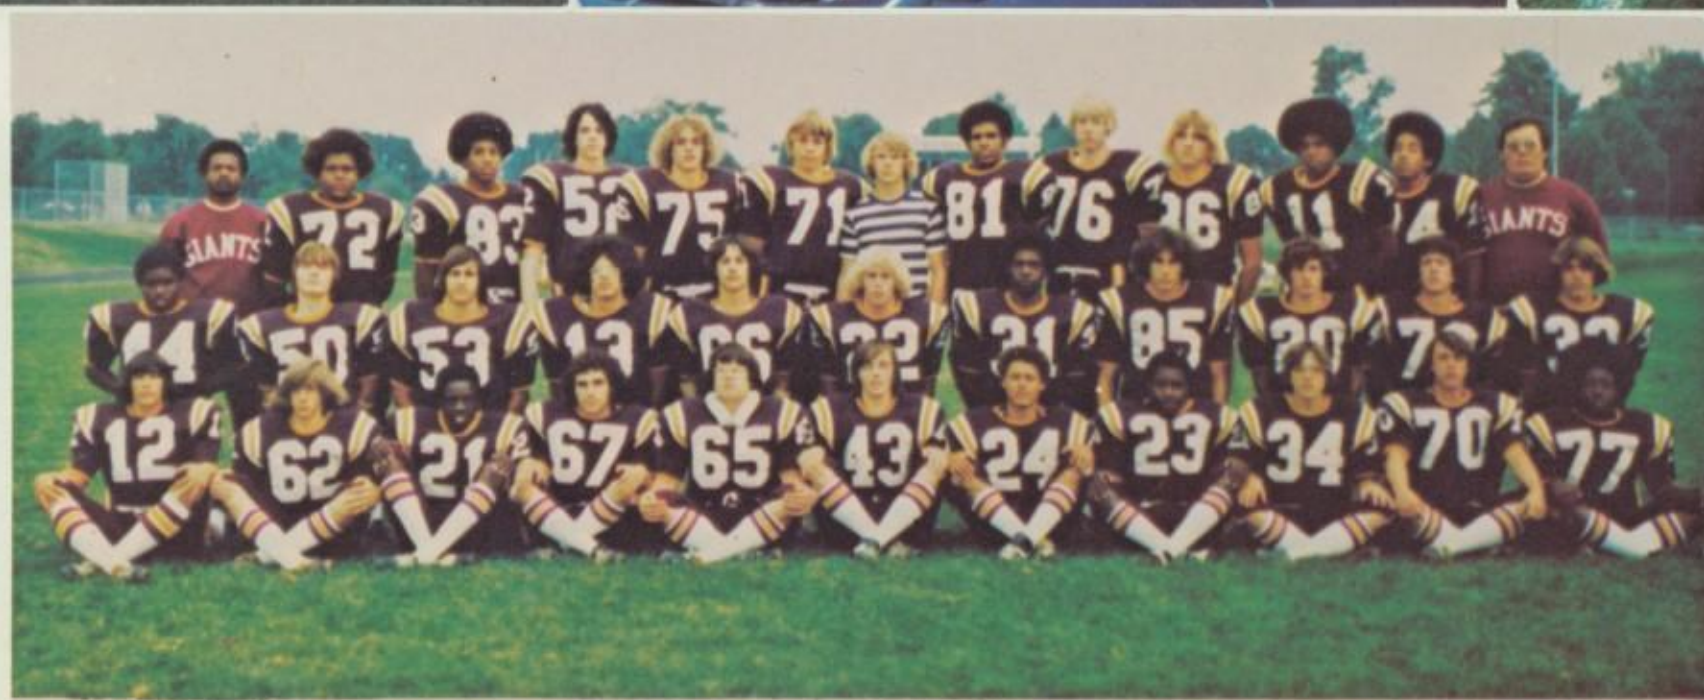

BUMP! SET! SPIKE!

This year Womens Volleyball got off to a good start, under the supervision of Coach Roberta MacCallum and assistants Ardis Lielzuika and Gundars Elksnis.

The team, consisting of a present nine J.V. players and eight Varsity, has really been on the go after winning their first match against Loy Norrix.

The girls still need some practice with their technique but for a second year team things are really looking good. Coach "Mac" has high hopes for next year's returning Sophomores and Juniors.

This year's captain were: J.V. Captain Kathy Klepper and Co-Captain Janet Cherpes. Varsity Captain Lynnetta McDermott, Co-Captains Cheryl Knapp and Teri Sue Husband.

Gymnastics Comes to Central High

For the first time in the history of Central High, Gymnastics, a new sport, comes to Central High School. Under the able and talented guidance of two fine Coaches from Western Michigan University, Dennis Spencer, and Jerry Tobias, Central will field a fine young women's team to compete with the schools in our area.

Since this is the very first season in competition, much must be learned and experienced. Hopefully, the team will improve fast, and in a season or two become competitive in a highly specialized, artistic and difficult sport.

Much luck to Coach Spencer and his young gymnasts in the very first season.

Kalamazoo Central High

Curtis Young: Assistant Principal

Charles Ply: Assistant Principal

William Pyle: Dean of Students

The Central High School Administration this year has successfully run a complex high school of over 1500 students smoothly and efficiently.

They have worked with students on many projects including the Bread Lift, Inter-School Councils, individual social problems, dances, and athletic contests.

They have implemented on a continuing basis our fine attendance policies, and supported the teaching staff in their work.

Throughout the year our administration has helped and encouraged students to do a stronger more effective job in their studies and responsibilities. Central High can be proud of its fine Administration.

CURIOSITY NEVER RUNS ITS COURSE.

Curiosity has a kind of immortality. Like the mythical Phoenix, the desire to know continually springs forth anew. So we have emerged from the alchemist's curiosity to explore the boundless geometry of the molecule. And tomorrow's version of shaping matter will be even more awesome. But not alien, for it will have the familiarity of an old idea returned.

Curiosity is the heart of science, of progress, of research. And research is the lifeline of The Upjohn Company.

We continually remind ourselves that a good idea is never finished, but rather waiting for research to push it one step further. To that task we dedicate our resources.

Here's to 1976, Central High, The Senior Class, the strongest academic graduating class, and to the future. We can look back to remember the accomplishments of this year. America is 200 years old and to help you in celebrating we have brought to you this 1976 Bicentennial Delphian in hopes you will enjoy it. Congratulations to the football team, and the seniors who brought the success, and the student body who gave their support. We have done our best to cover every area of school life and the activities. We the staff, worked to put the book together for your pleasure. We feel that without Mr. Bennett, this book would of never made it. We owe a lot to him. Special thanks to Mr. Haw and the rest of the Administration, Mr. Jim Thompson, our Taylor Representative, our photographers, and to the underclassmen who helped in identifying all the pictures.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE
KALAMAZOO PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Presented by the Kalamazoo Central High School
Delphian Yearbook Staff of 1976

The Beginning Heritage

The history of the Kalamazoo public-school system hinges itself on our historic Indian Mounds, the finest Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in Michigan's history, a spectacular February fire, a World War II block-long scrap heap, and an 1879 earthquake nobody quite remembers.

Informal education in the Kalamazoo area probably started with the Mound Builders in the fifteenth century A.D. There were lots of mounds scattered throughout Kalamazoo County, but nobody knows for sure who built them or why. By the time the Potawatomis were settled in our valley in the late 1500's, the mounds had been here at least a hundred years.

When the first white man, French fur trader Robert Cavalier, passed through the valley in 1680, their history was already ancient legend in the lore of the tribes that lived here. We still do not know for sure what the mounds were used for. Some say, because they were always in a perfect circle, that they were burial grounds or religious places. But few artifacts, bones, or tools have ever been found in them to substantiate that claim, including the one in Bronson Park.

More than likely, the four-foot elevated circles were speaker's mounds where the nobles or chiefs of some ancient tribes stood and proclaimed the legends and history of their peoples. Hence, the first formal history lessons and stories and the first faint beginnings of education came to the green-wooded river, grassland, and forest that was to become known as the Valley of Kalamazoo.

In the 1500's and 1600's, education as we know it held a low priority. Most of the efforts of the natives were aimed at survival. One strong tradition held at the time was that most of the Indians in this area were suspected of being pro-French and that they fought against the English at the Siege of St. Joseph (Detroit) in 1763.

When the American settlers began to migrate into the area in the early 1800's, the traditional anti-English posture of the natives was still etched into the memories of many of the older settlers. Although the Indians were no longer supporting the French and their alliances had long been dissolved — in fact, they were quite friendly to the new settlers — their past history and cultural differences made the early Americans very uneasy.

The Potawatomis that lived in our valley were nomadic and had no notion of land-property ownership. For them, no one owned the forests, and the farming instincts of our first settlers must have seemed very odd indeed. Being migratory with the fowl and game, they had no notion of sanitation as we know it. They built their forest wooden dwellings where the deer were, dumped personal litter outside their huts, and when the village was unbearable they simply moved on. After all, the forest went on forever. The early American settlers, with their European sense of cleanliness and work ethic, frowned on this, and the cultural gap was deep between them.

Still, there was room for everybody in the beginning. In all of the Michigan Territory in the early 1800's, there were no more than 15,000 Indians in the whole state, and they were scattered over a wide area. Smallpox and measles reduced that number by 1840.

When our forefathers came to this rich prairie, they made it a point to move the Indians out. Around 1840, after our local tribes had signed a treaty that robbed them of their land, a man named Rice was given the unhappy duty of moving them out of our area. The Potawatomis were herded together near our present Amtrak railroad station, lined up, packed up, and literally escorted out of the county — south and west to the western side of the Mississippi River.

Pioneer Schools: 1833-1848

Michigan was accepted into the Union on January 26, 1837. During these years, our forefathers turned to constructing a village and solidifying the culture in the area. In 1829, a man named Titus Bronson wandered into the little prairie that lies by our river and, with a dream of founding a settlement, established his home. He aptly named it Bronson. Although the original hamlet had his name, later settlers — who did not like Titus very well — renamed the village Kalamazoo, after the river that runs through the area. In a huff, Titus Bronson moved west to Rock Island, Illinois, where he died in 1853.

The first school in Kalamazoo was a log — and earth — slab affair, built long before the Indians left in 1833. The village at its beginnings consisted of forty or fifty log dwellings on the Kalamazoo River, just north of the now defunct Consumers Power plant near the East Main bridge. That first school was located on the south side of South Street, between Burdick and Henrietta Streets; it was said to have been built on a site initially set aside for a burial ground, but which was never used for that purpose. Eliza Coleman was the first teacher. The little dwelling was also a circuit court and a church. In 1848, the first brick schoolhouse was built near the junction of Kalamazoo Avenue and East Main Street, just west of Walbridge Street. It cost $600.00.

In 1851, the districts outside the village limits fell under the jurisdiction of the village trustees and became the School District of Kalamazoo. Nathaniel Balch was the first Superintendent of Schools. There were four one-room schoolhouses and 924 children in the district. Only 200 of the children actually went to school.

In 1850, the settlement had 2,507 people; in 1853, there were 3,093. Each year the number went up. So in 1853 the old Baptist Church at Rose and Church Streets were divided into two rooms, and the first graded school in Kalamazoo was born. Ominously, by 1855 many of the students were growing close to high-school age, and there was no place in the district to educate them.

As in most lumbering, farming, and trading communities where life was sustained by physical toil, there was no great landslide for formal education. So men like Dwight May, Frank Little, and Daniel Putnam began to pressure the community into building a high school.

There was heavy resistance. One problem was that two thirds of all the voters in the district had to agree on a site. To get two thirds of the electorate to agree on anything was nearly impossible, so the trustees of the village simply bought 5 acres on the corner of South Westnedge and Vine Streets from Arad C. Balch for $6,500. The first high school would be built on this land. Later buildings would go up, but always on the same 5 acres until 1960, when a new sister high school, Loy Norrix, was erected on the southern border of Kalamazoo City.

Daniel Putnam was perhaps our first visionary and superlative superintendent. In 1856, our town was an agrarian trading post with some growing logging industry and celery, onion, and lettuce farming on the deep black soil that lay to the north and west of the river. Putnam placed continual stress on his fellow townsmen, through speeches and editorials, that all the children in the village and surrounding areas should be educated. Objections from farmers who wanted the children in the fields were considerable.

Putnam was clearly ahead of his time. He introduced grading of students, advanced courses, coeducational classes, academic departments, and a graduated system of education beginning from the primary grades through intermediate to high school.

“(This) decision became the rule of law throughout the land.”

The Kalamazoo Case

With the help of the trustees, Putnam built the first Union High School in 1858 — where the Vine Elementary School now stands — for $8,000. Eight students graduated from the first Central High School senior class in 1863.

Although primary education had traditionally been paid by taxes assessed on the community, a high school was an educational luxury. No one had to go to school beyond the sixth grade. The citizens of the district were under no obligation to pay for a new high school through tax monies. For many citizens, high schools and colleges were suspected of only educating the rich. Farmers and tradesmen did not learn their trades in school. They learned them at work. What good was it to learn Latin, botany, and algebra, anyway? The community did not take the building of this new school lightly.

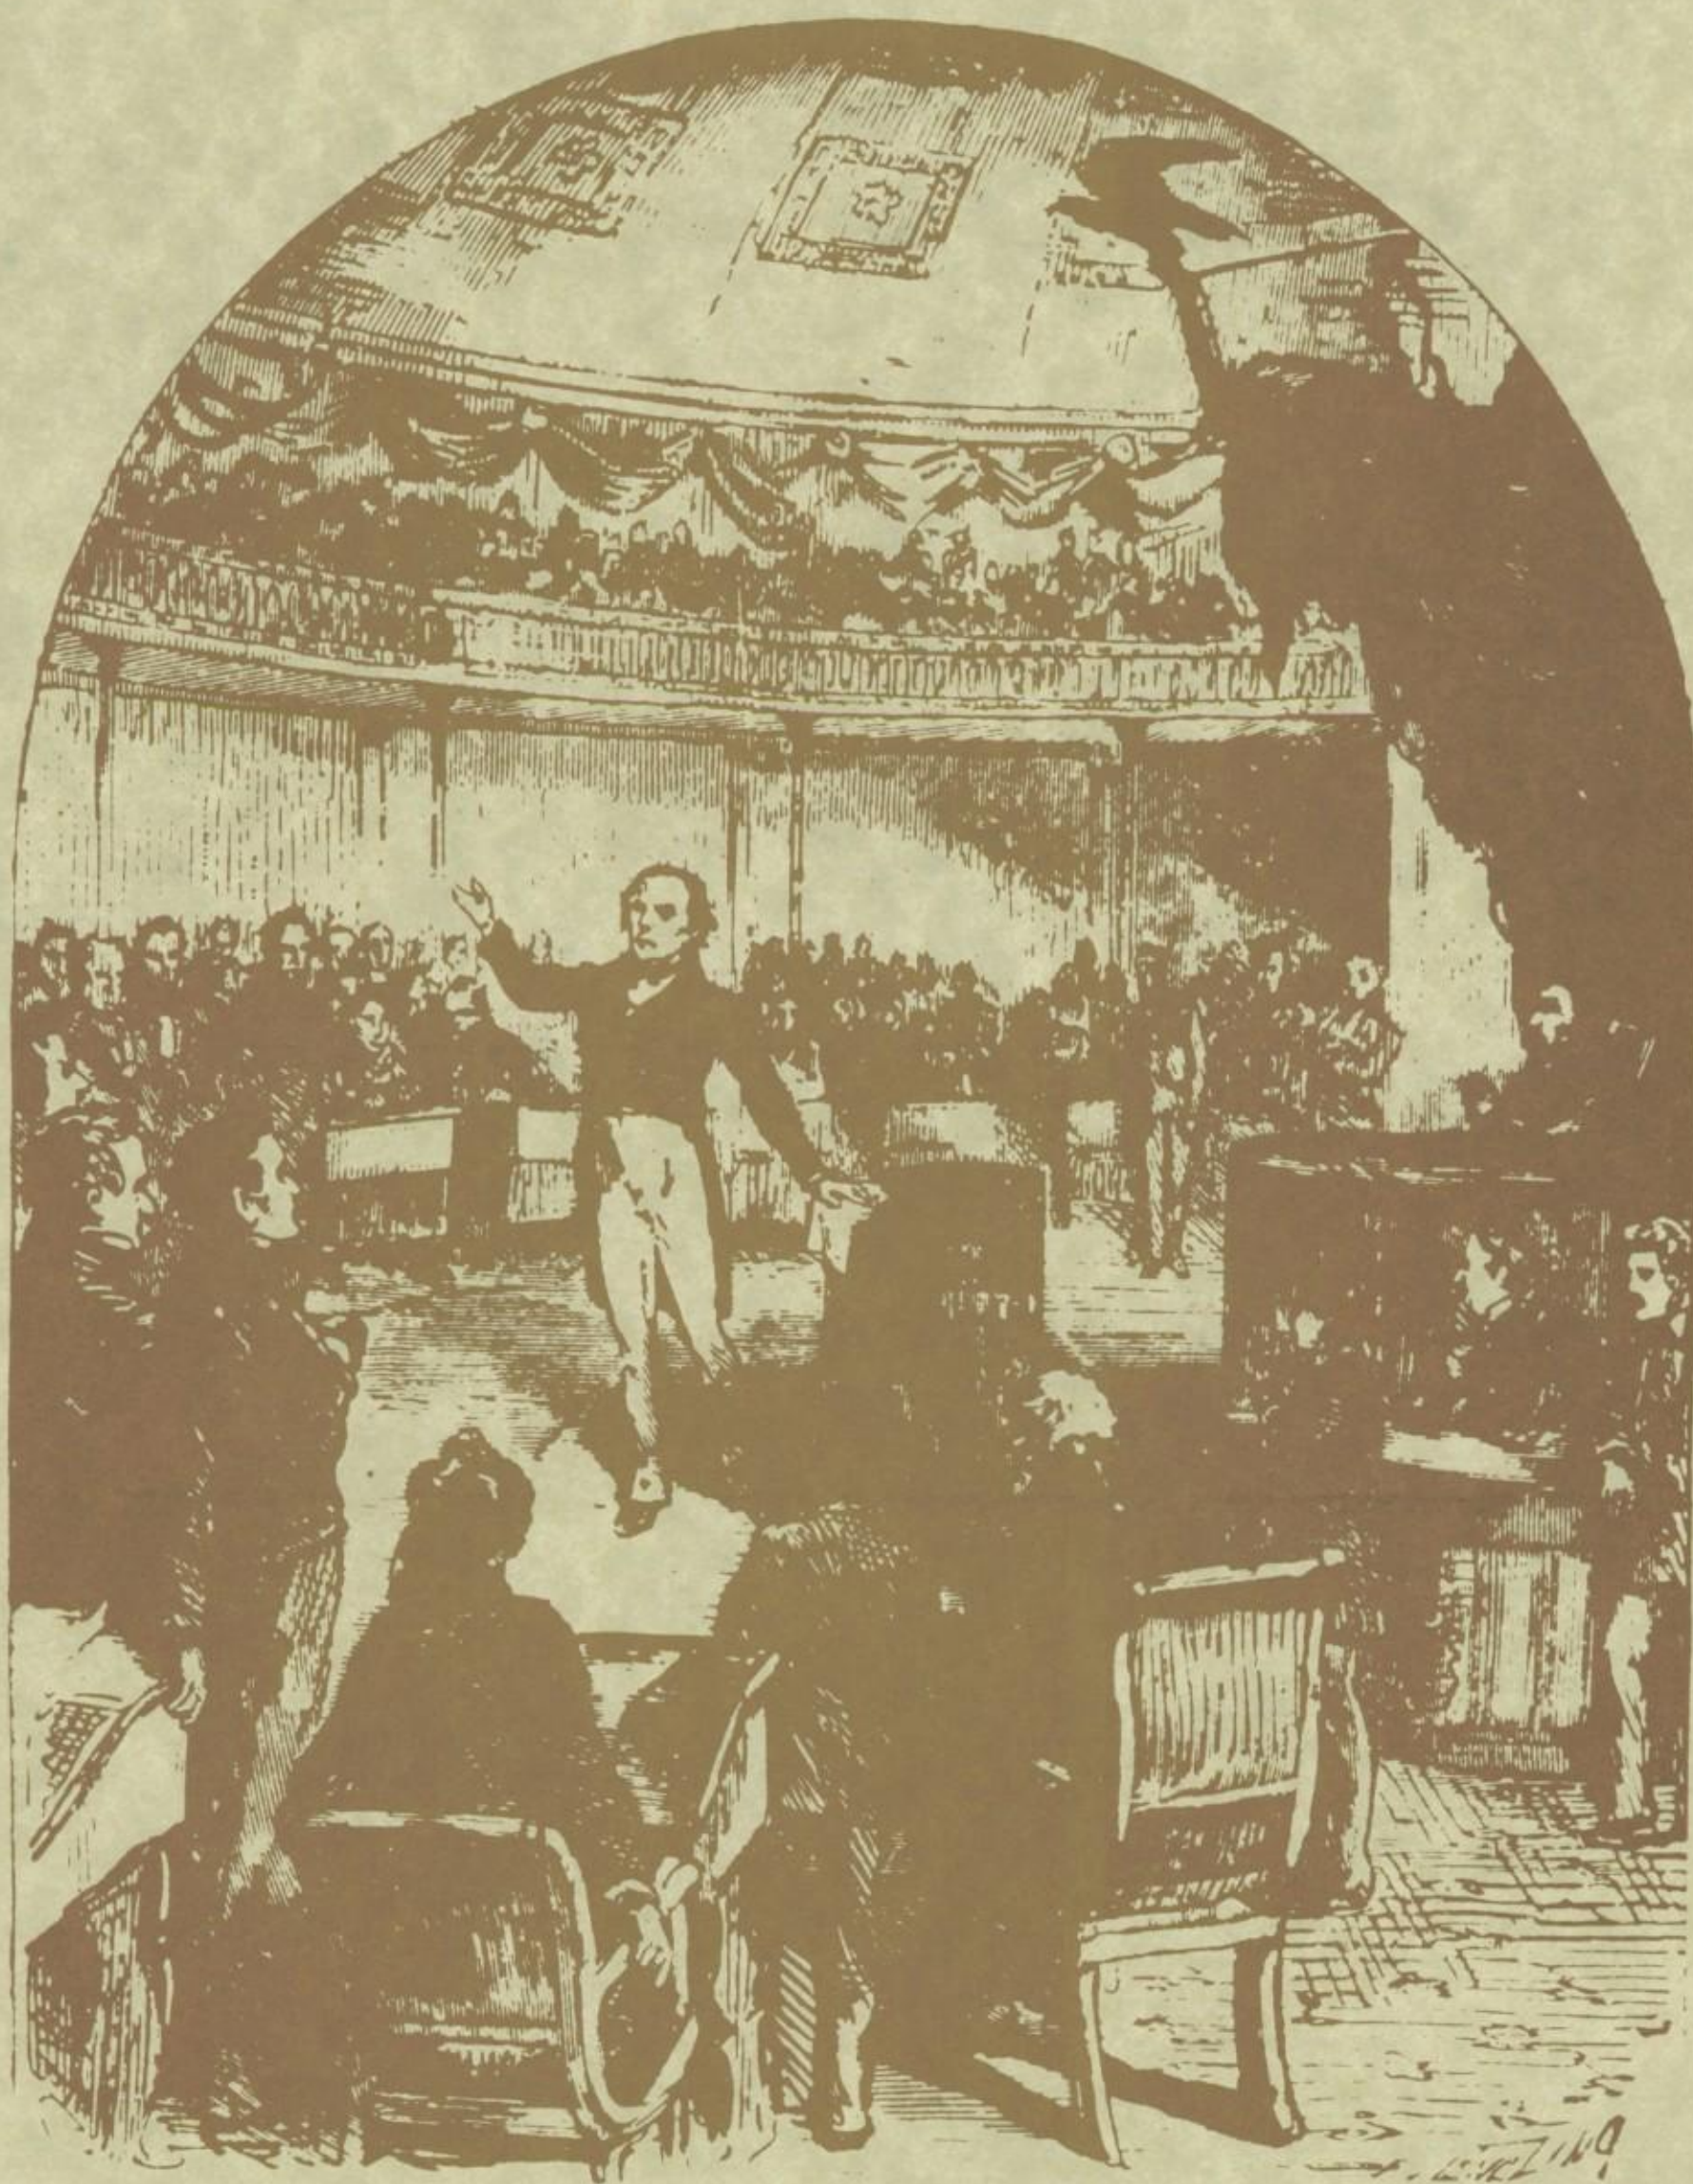

The cost of building the institution was to be paid by the taxpayers not by floating bonds, as was the custom, but by direct taxation. Editorials in the KALAMAZOO TELEGRAPH blasted the tax, saying that it would paralyze industry and raise taxes to 2 percent of the assessed valuation of the district. Many citizens were outraged. But after grumbling, they paid the taxes. Still, they were not happy, and the whole business festered for over ten years.

Some twelve years later, in 1873, a bill of complaint was filed in Kalamazoo Circuit Court by a group of citizens, asking the township treasurer not to pay the school tax for the high school. Petitioners, represented by U.S. Senator Charles Stuart, contended that taxes for primary education up to the eighth grade were acceptable, but the law did not authorize the collection of taxes for a high school.

Circuit Judge Charles R. Brown handed down the decision upholding the school board on February 9, 1874. It was immediately appealed to the Michigan State Supreme Court. On July 21, 1874, perhaps the greatest justice ever to sit on the High Bench of Michigan, Thomas M. Cooley, wrote his opinion after careful survey of Michigan's constitution and laws: there was a purpose to establish a continuing system of education in the state from the primary grades straight up to the university; a high school was an integral part of that system.

Cooley's decision became the rule of law throughout the nation, partly because of the fame of the justice. Daniel Putnam was superintendent and principal of Union High during all of these years. The 1858 school board which decided to take this momentous step had men on it named Walker, Winslow, Woodbury, Thomas, Dodge, and Bixby. The men may have slipped our memories, but what they did has not. Their first step helped legitimize secondary-school education across this country and, through taxation for secondary schools, institutionalized the right of every citizen in this country to get a total, complete high-school education.

KALAMAZOO UNION SCHOOL BUILDING—From a Photograph by Porter & Packard, Artists, Kalamazoo, 1866.

The first high school built in Kalamazoo was the Old Union. It was over this school that the famous Kalamazoo Case was fought. This photo was taken in 1866. The building was torn down in 1880.

First High School

The Old Union High School by our present standards, was large and plain — a big, square block of a building with some fake Italian filigree around the outside and a large cupola on the top. It was revolutionary for its OPPOSITE PAGE: (Top) This was the drafting room in our first high school. time. It had two long bisecting halls which divided the school into quarters. Including the basement, there were four floors. All floors were used to educate all levels, from primary right up through high school. Each floor had specific rooms for specific departments: library, recitation rooms (two of which held up to 200 people), four rooms for primary students, and departmental rooms.

It was easily one of the highest buildings in the small village. It could be seen as far away as the river. In addition, the concept of separate rooms for separate classes was brand new in 1858, and Union High was much imitated throughout the state of Michigan.

The building was condemned in 1879. As early as 1875, editorials had appeared in the KALAMAZOO TELEGRAPH warning that it was unsafe. There were accounts of an earthquake in 1879 having put cracks in upper floors, and, of course, vandalism over the years had taken its toll; so in 1880 it was torn down.

Minority Groups

As far as the history books tell us from 1840 until the 1850's, minorities (blacks, Indians) were either not mentioned or did not attend school. We do know that a segregated 50-student school for minorities was started in 1861, and existed until 1871 at a building at North and Walbridge Streets. Pressure from the community and some legal difficulty stopped the separation. Students from that school were transferred to a newer school on Frank Street on October 18, 1872; after that, no overt attempt to segregate the children was made in the school system.

The Centennial

By the first centennial year, 1876, Kalamazoo Public Schools had over 40 teachers and 1,500 students. Beginning from about this time, the school system fought a series of never-ending battles to keep ahead of the increasing student enrollments, which were not to end until almost our bicentennial. A second 400-student Union High School was built on the same spot in 1881 for $20,000, and was enlarged in 1891. But seven years later - on February 1, 1897 — the building caught fire and, in a spectacular blaze, burned to the ground.

In 1898, a new high school was built next to the rubble of the Union High building. The new school faced Vine Street. It was during this period, in 1899, that Kalamazoo became the first city in Michigan to establish manual training. Evening school had been started the year before. Also, in 1904 a school for the deaf was started. An interesting side-light is that 1899 was the first year of the Central High football team; they had a record of 4-1-1 that year. Between 1905 and 1907, Central High claimed two state championships in football; the teams were coached by Herbert W. ("Buck") Read, who would later go on to sports fame at Western Michigan Normal College.

It would not be until seventy years later in 1975 that Central High School would have another unbeaten, untied season in football. In that year Coach Jim Long led the finest football team in the school's history to a 9-0 record, a 4th-place finish in the state Associated Press poll, and a semi-finalist berth in Michigan's first statewide football tournament.

In 1913, the school district added a gymnasium and a manual training center to Central High, and a second addition was completed in 1920. The 1920 addition meant tearing down the 1898 building, and replacing it with a newer building which faced Dutton and Westnedge Streets. A new cultural auditorium housed almost all of Kalamazoo's cultural activities and was refurbished in the 1950's. It has since been renamed Chenery Auditorium, after a well-known drama teacher and civic leader — Howard Chenery.

Most of the people brought up in Kalamazoo between 1891 and 1960 graduated from the original Vine Street or Dutton/Westnedge addition. Presently, the building houses the Community Education Center.

Era of Burgeoning Enrollment 1921-38

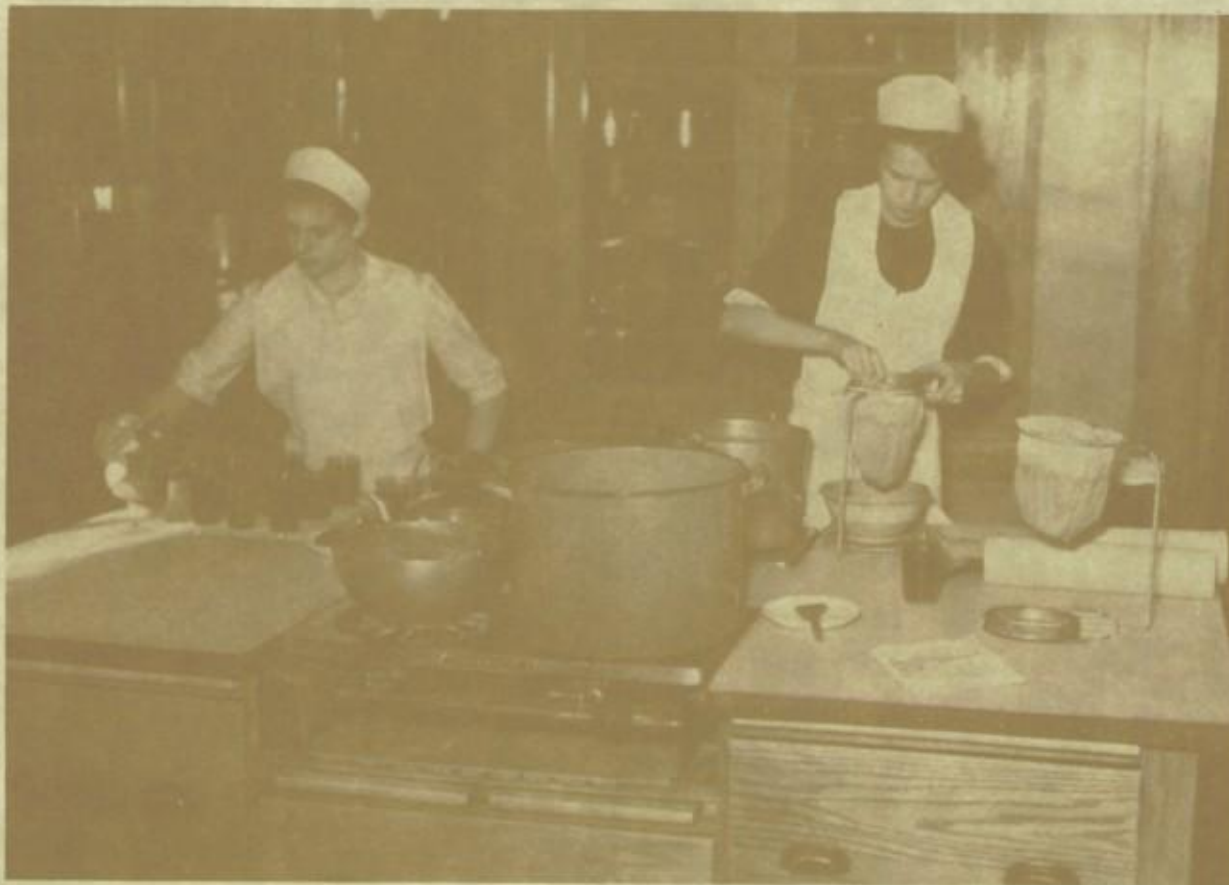

By 1927, due to huge enrollment increases, the Kalamazoo Public Schools — in a gigantic spurt of building — established fourteen new schools and educated a growing pupil population of over 12,000 students. These are some of the schools that were built or acquired as additions in that period, most of which are in operation today:

- 1921 — Milwood Elementary
Washington Elementary (and Junior High)
Woodward Elementary (and Junior High)
- 1922 — Harding Elementary
Lincoln Elementary
Parkwood Elementary
- 1923 — Edison Elementary
- 1924 — McKinley Elementary
Vine Street Elementary (and Junior High)
- 1926 — Hillcrest Elementary
West Main Elementary
- 1927 — Westnedge Elementary
- 1929 — Woodrow Wilson Elementary

As 1929 came to a close, the Kalamazoo public-school system had expanded far beyond what our forefathers could have envisioned, and incorporated some surrounding school districts. But the growing was not over. Four additional schools would go up in the 1930's before the first big building boom would stop: Burke Acres Elementary, in 1931; Brucker Elementary, in 1932; Lakewood Elementary, in 1938; also in 1938, the Harold Upjohn School for the Handicapped was opened. The Upjohn School was, and still is, one of the finest of its kind in the State of Michigan. It is used as a model of educational innovation for handicapped children.

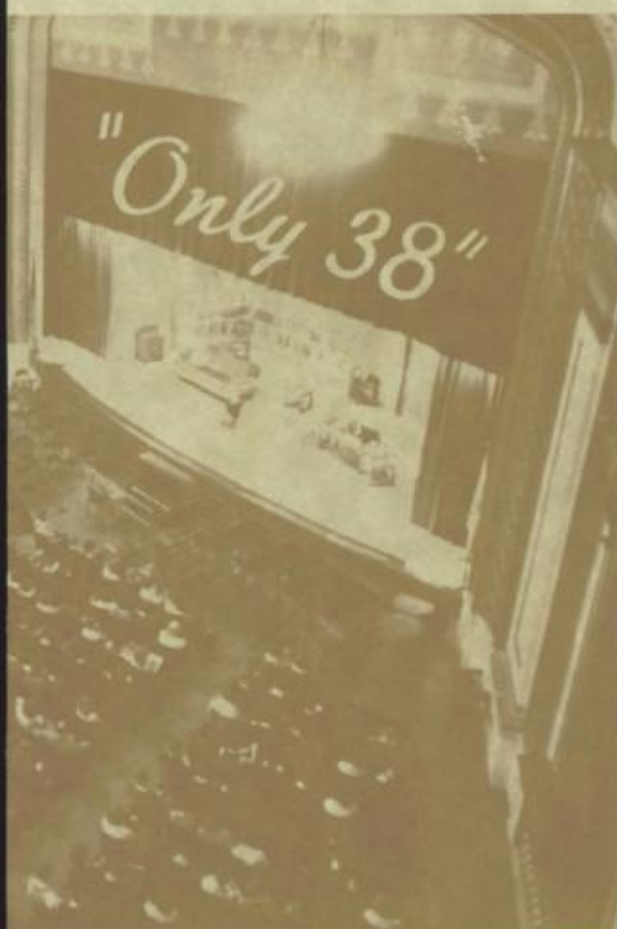

“Dr. Norrix made an indelible impression on . . . our schools.”

Handicapped as it looked when it first opened in June, 1938. It is still one of the leading schools in the country for handicapped children. Further Growth: 1938 - 50

From 1936 until his death in January, 1958, the man who guided the helm of the Kalamazoo Public Schools was Dr. Loy Norrix. He held the position of superintendent longer than anyone else in the history of the system. During his twenty-plus years of service, Dr. Norrix made an indelible impression on the academic character and physical expansion of our schools.

It was during his administration (during World War II) that the famous Westnedge scrap heap was assembled. It seems that the KALAMAZOO GAZETTE in October, 1942, sponsored a scrap drive for the war effort. Central High students assembled over 200 tons of the stuff and totally blocked off Westnedge Avenue from Vine Street to South Street. It took two weeks to cart away all the junk, sort it, and send it to the appropriate areas for melting down.

There was a calm during the war years, and the school system's student population stabilized. Central's contribution to the war effort was high. A total of 116 young men from Kalamazoo died fighting for our country during that period of time. All had gone to Central High School.

Five years after the war, however, Dr. Norrix once again found his schools bursting. The postwar "baby boom" began to hit, and the enrollment soared. To keep up with the pressure, the following schools were built during this period:

- 1951 — South Junior High
- 1952 — Oakwood Junior High

Westwood Elementary

- 1953 — Chime Elementary
- Northeastern Junior High
- 1954 — Greenwood Elementary
- 1955 — Lindbergh Elementary
- Peter Pan School
- 1956 — Grand Prairie Elementary
- Spring Valley Elementary
- 1958 — Hillside Junior High
- Pleasant Park School

After Dr. Norrix's death, long-time Assistant Superintendent Daniel Heathcote was appointed superintendent and served in that capacity from January, 1958, until his own retirement in July of that year.

Superintendents Thomas Bowman and Richard Percy headed the school system in the 1960's (1958-1961 and 1961-1968, respectively). Percy, a favorite educator among the teachers, guided the building programs that were inspired and initiated by Norrix, Bowman, and Heathcote and brought them to fruition. The following buildings were erected during this period.

- 1959 — Indian Prairie Elementary
- Kalamazoo Public Library
- Milwood Junior High
- Northglade Elementary
- Winchell Elementary
- 1960 — Administration Building
- Fairview Elementary
- Loy Norrix High School
- 1963 — Oakwood Elementary
- 1964 — Arcadia Elementary
- 1965 — John F. Kennedy School

Two New High Schools

A sister high school to Central was built in 1960. It was named after Dr. Loy Norrix. Architecturally, it is one of the most stunningly beautiful high schools in the country today. Its dramatic use of glass, its light open space; its integrated setting into a lovely 50-acre site; its dramatic educational pod design; and its open spacious corridors: these features make it one of the most delightful yet functional institutions in the system. The pod design was created so that an entire yearly class of students could occupy one pod (except for the shop classes, resource center, and auditorium). But the reality of running a high school made this idea too difficult to implement.

Over the last fifteen years, Loy Norrix has developed a tradition of education all its own. There have been only three principals since its opening: Elwood Griffith, Dr. Joseph Serra, and Jack Blanke who is principal today. The stadium at Loy Norrix is called Griffith Stadium, after the first principal.

Central High has had twenty-five principals since its inception, beginning with Daniel Putnam, Shattuck O. Hartwell, Dr. Charles Fisher, and William F. Head. The longest term of a Central High principal was held by William Head, who began his administrative service in 1926. He remained until ill health made him resign in 1945. His distinguished career as teacher and administrator totaled forty-nine years, with twenty-nine of them at Central High.

Head was followed by Eugene Thomas, a man who was both an educator and a civic leader. While he was principal at Central High, the school's basketball team won three consecutive state championships (1949, 1950, and 1951) under Coach Bobby Quiring.

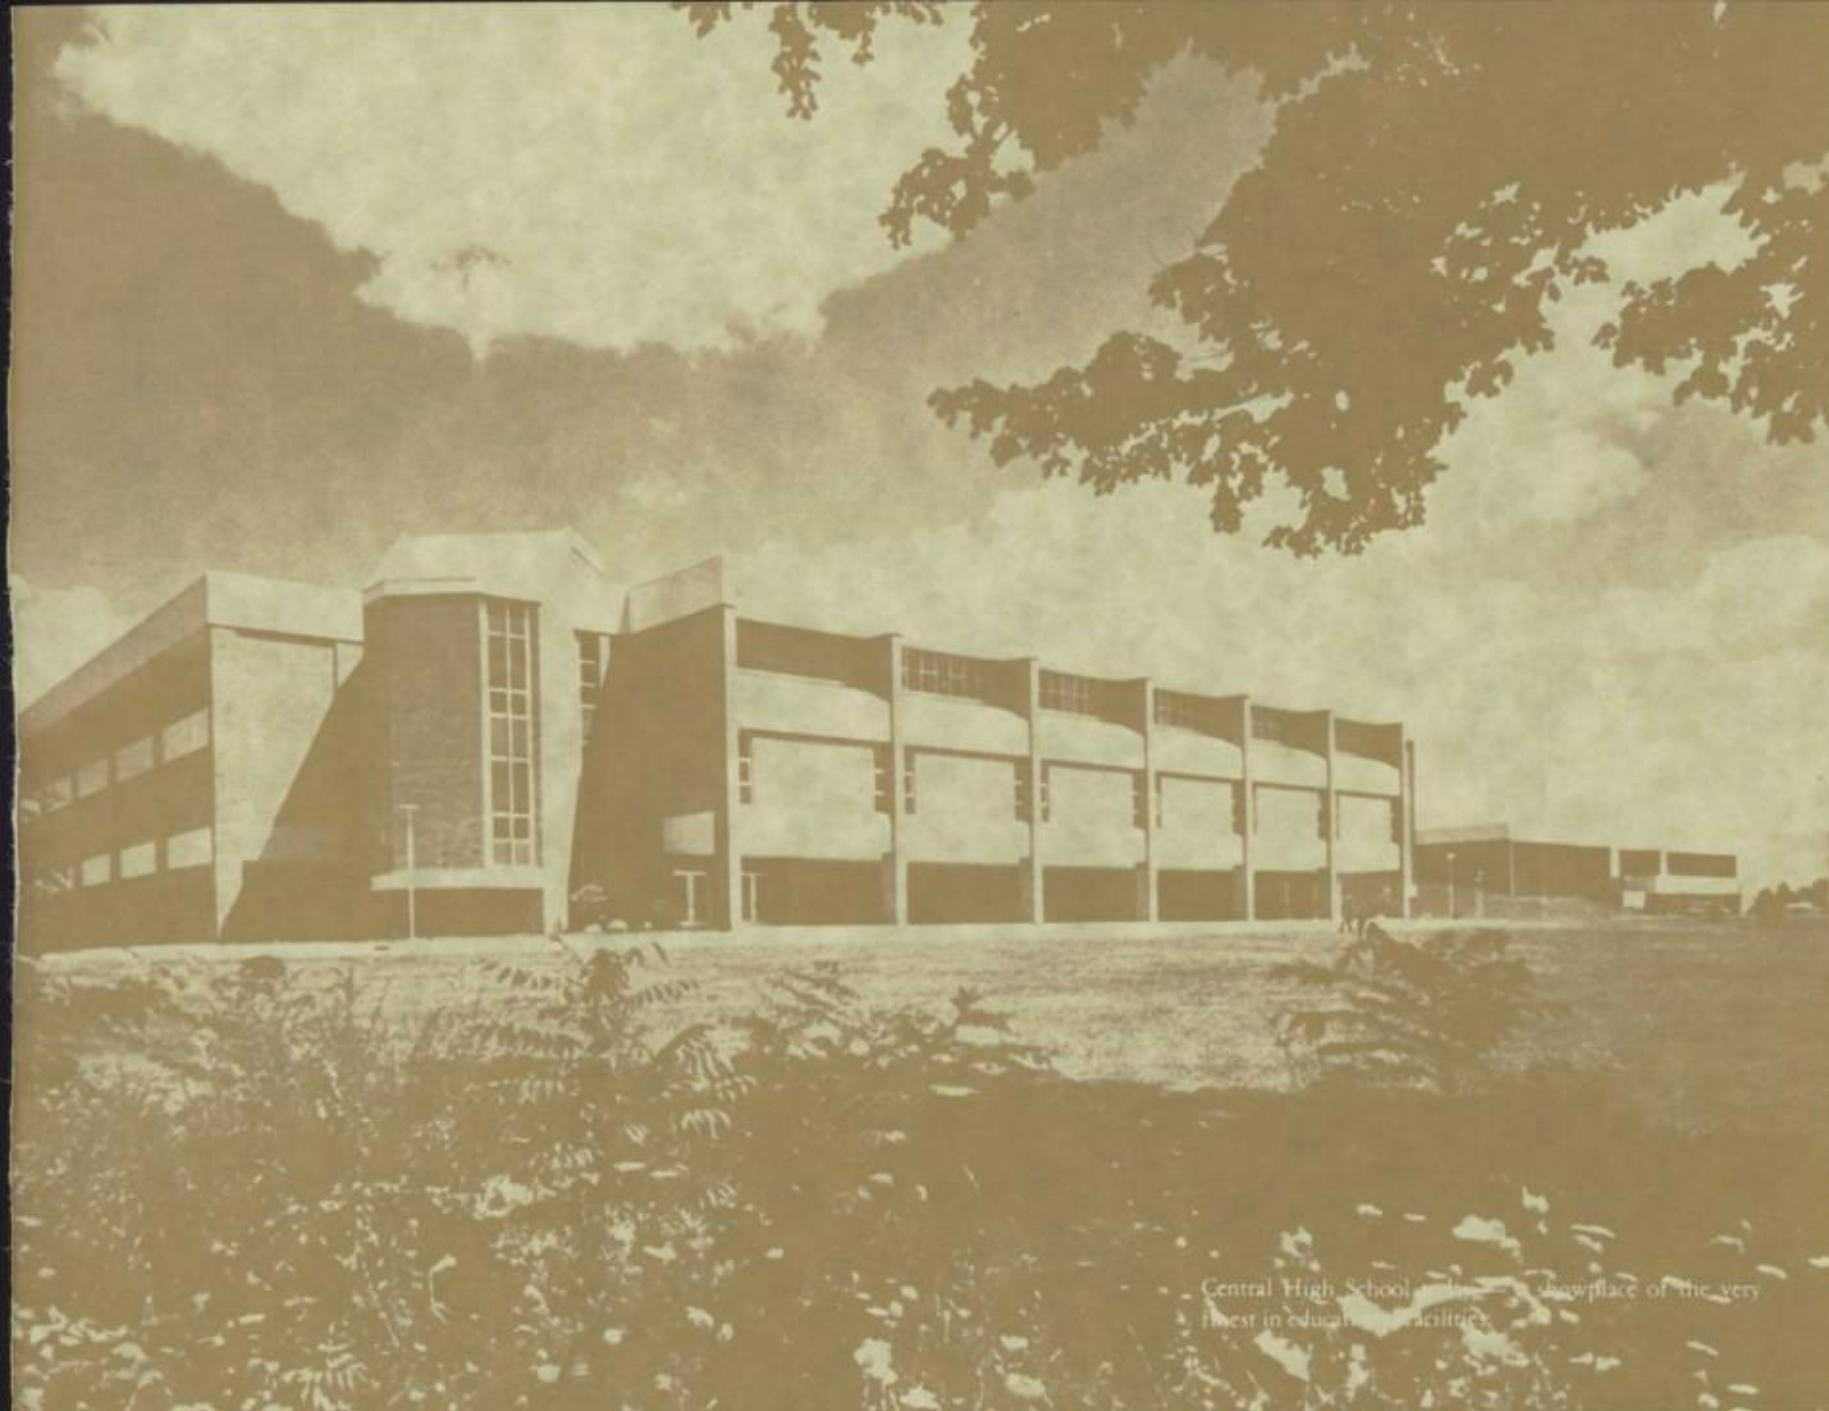

Over the last ten years, Central High School's principals have been John Dunn, Henry Goodwyn, and Richard Haw. Each has contributed to the upholding of the traditionally high professional standards of leadership in education.

In 1968, plans were conceived for a new Central High School. Under the guidance of Superintendent John R. Cochran, work was completed on the 303,000-square-foot facility by the end of 1970. The new school is an impressive one. Fully air-conditioned for year-round education, it contains an Olympic-sized pool, three gymnasiums, a sunken athletic stadium (named after Eugene Thomas), a resource-media center, an expanded industrial arts wing, and thoroughly modern classrooms for academic subjects. It is spacious, well designed, and could easily be expanded as the need arises.

The new Central High School on Drake Road was opened to classes for the first time in January, 1971; the dedication took place on May 7, 1972, with Principal L. Henry Goodwyn and Superintendent William Coats presiding.

More than 20,000 Kalamazoo citizens graduated from this building between 1913 and 1972. For many it will always be "the" Central High School. The Future

So today, as the school system celebrates the Bicentennial with the rest of the nation, our teachers, parents, administrators, and Board of Education are proud that our school district has such a distinguished educational heritage.

Loy Norrix, the new Central High School, the Community Education Center, the John F. Kennedy School, the Harold Upjohn School, the five junior high schools, the elementary system, and the public library all exemplify and symbolize a strong school district that is trying to meet the needs of over 15,000 students . . . and doing it.

Dearest Cindy, we finally made it! Do you believe it? I sure the hell do! Where do I start? It's like I've never had a best friend before until you. You understand me more than anyone could imagine. You don't laugh at the little things that mean so much to me, you understand. The feelings I have for you cannot be expressed in mere words, Remember all the Friday nights, Elton on the jukebox, riding around, etc... mostly etc! I hope for you, more than any other soul on this earth that life treats you the best, Kindness, & fineness; you deserve it. Don't let the world get you down; remember I'm here to cheer you up, love you, & help you through it. You will get him someday Cindy & I wish you all the happiness, peace, & harmony. Good luck in everything; life, friendships, career, etc... I think I'll miss you more than anyone when I leave. I hate to leave you, it makes me want to stay, & it makes me cry thinking of leaving you. It's been the greatest knowing you. Please keep in touch & please, please remember me. You're the best at loving, caring, sharing, cheering up & I've had the pleasure of doing the same for you. You just make me feel brand new. My love I'll never find the words my love to tell you how I feel my love mere words could not explain. Precious love you held my life within your hands, created everything I am, taught me how to live again. Only you cared when I needed a friend believed in this soul thick & thin this song is for you filled with grateful to in love. God bless you, you make me feel brand new for god bless me with you make me feel brand new I sing this song for you, make me feel brand new. My love whenever I was insecure you built me up & made me sure you gave my pride back to me. Precious thing with you I'll always have a friend, Your someone who I can depend, to walk a path that sometimes end. Without you life has no meaning or rhymes like notes to a song out of time how can I repay you for having faith in me? God bless you, you make me feel brand new for god bless me with you you make me feel brand new I sing this song for you. You... I hope there'll always be a part of me in the corner of your mind. I hope I've touched your life & heart. Love forever,
Pam

Cindy -
 How can I say what I developed feel. Our relationship has developed in such a way that its impossible for me to reveal my true feelings! I will have to admit that you're a dandy student & a big asset to the business field! Best of luck. "By the way, try to clean up your language - in the halls, classrooms & in the general public - not at all acceptable!"
